The deadline to file application for flood damages is February 10, 1986. Those desiring more information may contact the U.S. SBA Administration, Baltimore District Office, 10 North Calvert Street, Third Floor, Baltimore, Md., 21202.

A report was made on the progress of the Northern High School renovation project, which is now about 12 percent near completion.

However, the new vocational wing will not be ready for students by the Christmas break as originally planned, but should be completed by the end of March.

Plans are to move students into the renovated second floor as soon as possible. Students will be separated from construction by a temporary fire wall.

WRAPPING AND GIVING gifts for the victims of the severe flooding in the area last month were members of the Northern High School Student Council and a special committee organized by the council to spearhead projects to aid the flood victims. Pictured above wrapping several of the gifts are the officers of the Student Council, including, left to right, Shannon Wright, vice president; Michele Glotfelty, president; Missy Bittinger, secretary; and Tammy Swauger, treasurer. Below, members of the special committee display many of the gifts that were collected and/or purchased by the students and their families. In the photo left to right are Carrie House, Sarena Rowe, Stephanie Broadwater, Mildred Wucik, Student Council advisor; and Missy Bittinger, committee chairman. Not present for the photo were Loren Broadwater and April Thomas.

Northern High Students Aid Flood Victims

The Northern High School Student Council voted at its November 12 meeting to form a committee to initiate projects to help victims of the recent flooding. Selected to serve on the committee were: Missy Bittinger, chairman; April Thomas, Loren Broadwater, Sarena Rowe, Stephanie Broadwater, and Carrie House.

The committee voted to collect food and grooming articles for those affected by the flood and, through announcements, they challenged the student body and school organizations to respond. The goal of the committee was to collect one item per student at the school, a goal which was surpassed. The articles collected were sent to the Parsons, W.Va., United Methodist Church and distributed to the flood victims.

In response to a request by the Garrett County Board of Education that students and their families do what they can to help those in need during the holiday season, the Northern Student Council took it upon themselves to initate a two-phase plan, with phase one being a toy and book drive for children and phase two, monetary donations to the Flood Relief Fund located at the First United National Bank & Trust.

Various clubs and organizations in the school were again challenged by the committee to respond to this need. The Council sponsored a dance, whereby students were admitted by donating a toy, a book, or $1. Half of the $151 raised by this effort was used to purchase books and toys and the other half was deposited in the Relief Fund at the bank.

The Council also wrapped the various gifts that were received and then picked up for distribution in the flood stricken areas.

Mildred Wucik, advisor to the Student Council, stated that the response by the students and staff of the school was "truly appreciated" by the Council. "This will be appreciated even more by the families who suffered so much loss in the floods," she said.

CHRISTMAS GIVING — Once again the Broad Ford Elementary School Chapter I Parent Advisory Council (PAC), the PTA, and employees at the Garrett National Bank will make Christmas extra special for several families at Broad Ford. The project, coordinated by Carolyn S. Corley, Chapter I resource teacher, began with "The Giving Tree," a tree decorated with ornaments naming sizes and toys needed. The faculty, staff, students and bank employees selected ornaments and purchased gifts. Over $500 was also donated to purchase boots, coats, shoes and food. A total of 123 gifts was collected. Each family also received a turkey. Jane Droppleman, GNB loan officer, was in charge of the collection at the bank. PTA treasurer, Debbie Frantz; parents, Kathy DeBerry, Sue Fulmer, Debbie Kent, Suzanne Koon, Alverta Sweitzer; and Chapter I instructional aide, Carolyn Thorn, assisted with this annual project. In the photo, left to right, are Carolyn Corley, Debbie Kent, Jane Droppleman, Carolyn Thorn, Alverta Sweitzer, Kathy DeBerry, and Debbie Frantz. Not present for the photo were Sue Fulmer, Suzanne Koon, and Thomas Fowler, principal.

M.S. SANTA "CLAWS", complete with a long white beard, is just what you need for under your tree this Christmas. She is only six-months old, and has been spayed, wormed, and given all her shots, ready for a loving home. She can be yours by calling the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 334-3553.

Police said someone either hot-wired the vehicle or found a key which was hidden in the cab of the truck.

The pickup, valued at $2,500, is described as white with red and black stripes on the side. The interior is brown, and the truck has amber fog lights, spoke wheels on the rear, and standard steel wheels on the front.

Tfc. G.R. Chaney continues to investigate the theft.

GCC Trustees

would be submitted until a thorough study was done on the programmatic needs of the Oakland facility.

Financial Report

GCC Comptroller John Culp told the board that at mid-year, 39% of the budget had been spent. He noted that if the budget had been spent evenly, that number would have been 41.6%.

Culp said the college is running two and two-thirds under budget at this time, although he anticipated increased spending with the winter weather hiking the heating costs.

Pre-registration

Dean of Academic Affairs, Dr. Lillian Mitchell, announced that 86 full-time students and 16 part-time students had pre-registered for the spring semester as of Tuesday afternoon.

She said that represents 48.9 FTE, although there were still people lined up to register when she checked with the registrars office late that afternoon.

Dr. Mitchell also reported on the Continuing Education FTE. She said that as of December 10, Continuing Ed represented 37.34 FTE with 17.84 of that total being from the JTPA program.

Scholarship Fund

Dr. Puzzuoli expessed the college's sadness over the death of "a good friend", B. O. Aiken, and announced that the family had set up a memorial scholarship fund. He added that as of December 13, $560 had already been donated to the fund.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. Puzzuoli also announced Tuesday night that Sen. Jennings Randolph, Elkins, W. Va. would be the speaker at GCC's commencement exercises in May.

Six Cited On Liquor Charges

Six Garrett County residents will be served a criminal summonses for liquor law violations last month.

The violations occurred November 17 at the Deer Park Sportsmen's Club. Charges include selling alcohol without a license and selling alcohol on Sunday.

Summonses will be served on the four officers of the club, who include Clifford Tasker, Glen Hinebaugh, Glen Dale Collins, and James McCrosky, all of Deer Park.

Also to be served summonses will be two bartenders who were present at the time. They were Ronald Gene Harvey, Swanton, and Rhonda Hinebaugh, Deer Park.

EXHIBITION ON DISPLAY — These pictures are an example of the current display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. The artists are all students at Garrett Community College, participating in the atelier program. The atelier is an approach to art education which enables beginning students to have experiences with professional artists, advanced students, and the instructor in an open studio atmosphere, according to Ronald Skidmore, assistant professor of art at GCC. Above, left, is the "Drane House" by Edna Bender. The buggy pictured above right, is by Barbara Fahey. Pictured below, left, is "Carolina Highway" by Jean James Pollack, and the boy at the right, below, is by Twila Maust.

Check List For Disability Funds Noted By SS

A check list designed to alert applicants for disability benefits to the type of information that may be required is available to individuals and groups involved with disabled persons, according to Elaine Watson, district manager of the Cumberland Social Security office.

The check list—Form SSA-12—entitled, Filing for Social Security or SSI disability benefits, is expected to save considerable office time for disability applications, which require detailed information on the claimant's condition and treatment.

The form indicates that claimants for Social Security or supplemental security income (SSI) disability benefits may speed up the interview and claims processing time by having the following information with them at the time of the interview:

*Social Security number and Social Security number for spouse or other dependents.

*When the condition started.

*How it keeps him or her from working.

*Date he or she stopped working.

*Information concerning current job, if any, including date he or she returned to work and employer.

*List of complete names, addresses and phone numbers of all doctors, hospitals, or other medical facilities where he or she received treatments or tests.

*Hospital, clinic and/or Medicaid number.

*Claim number for any other disability checks he or she has received or has applied for.

*Medicines now taken, including names, dosages, and how often.

*Any restrictions his or her doctor requested.

*Work history and daily activities.

The Cumberland office is located at the Country Club Mall, Winchester and Vocke Roads, LaVale. Persons may call (301) 729-3232 to obtain a free check list and the pamphlet "If You Are Disabled."

WANTED: FUGITIVE IN RED SUIT AND BEARD

This man was last seen violating all speed limits, driving a sled-like vehicle pulled by various animals. Subject in question was rather rotund, clad in a red suit and cap, black boots, has a white beard and was carrying a large bag. He was heading north.

Due to his great speed and large sack, he is wanted for questioning. We have also been notified that he has been spreading cheer and good will. Reward for making contact with this subject will be a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

STRANGERS AT THE MANGER

December 22, 1985

Background Scripture:
Matthew 2
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 2:13-18

If Luke's shepherds seem, by virtue of humble nature, somewhat inappropriate and surprising, Matthew's wise men from the East may appear to be even more incongruous. We can assume the shepherds were at least Jews (Although they may not have been!), but Matthew's wise men are obviously not from any of Israel's tribes. Matthew tells us simply that they were from "the East". We know nothing else of who they were or from whence they came, but some Biblical scholars believe they came from somewhere around or beyond the Tigris/Euphrates Valley, possibly Persia.

THE EASTERN STAR

There's irony for you! It is possible that they came from the same corner of the world from which today there issues forth the most virulent and militant brand of Islam. If ever there was a wall of alienation between Christianity and other faiths, it certainly exists today between Christians and Iranian Moslems.

There's another irony in Matthew's story of the wise men. Many authorities today believe that the wise men were probably astrologers, perhaps Zoroastrians. It was their study of the heavenly bodies and their influence upon life and the world events that led them to Bethlehem to look for Jesus. Yet, they were not either Christians or even proto-type Christians. Today, wise men following such practices and beliefs would not likely be very welcome at the manger if Christians were in charge of determining who is to be allowed in. If one thinks deeply about Matthew's Story of the Nativity, we might get pretty indignant with God for letting into the stable of Bethlehem these "heathen" strangers.

SEEING THE STAR

But, isn't the Christmas story telling us that there can be no strangers at the manger of Bethlehem? Jesus was a Jew who was recognized as the long-awaited King of the Jews, but Matthew helps us to realize that Jesus' birth was meant as good news to all people everywhere. No one can be strangers at the manger if they have seen and are trying to follow his star.

Jesus's nativity fulfilled the hopes of his own people, but he was intended to come to fulfill the hopes of all people everywhere. He did not belong to the Jews and he does not belong to the Christians today. If anything, it is that we are his, not he is ours. He is just as much the Saviour of people beyond our church walls as he is of those within them. Even if people do not acknowledge him, he is still no less the saviour of the world.

Thus, there are no strangers at Christ's manger. Only those who have come to worship and serve him.

Teachers Will Appeal Pension Suit Decision

The Maryland State Teachers Association announced last week that it will appeal the pension suit decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Beverly Corelle Stonestreet, MSTA president, in making the announcement, said, "We have said from the beginning that we will take the fight all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary. After having discussed the matter with our attorneys, we continue to believe that our cause is right and just.

"We will now ask the Supreme Court to review the decision of the Court of Appeals. Our teachers and state employees deserve no less than that."

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit last week affirmed the decision of the District Court, which had ruled that the 1984 pension law was constitutional and therefore valid. About 70,000 Maryland teachers and state employees are affected by the law which reduced retirement benefits.

Stonestreet said that MSTA is currently holding discussions with its co-plaintiffs in the suit—other employee organizations—on whether they wish to join MSTA in the latest appeal.

MSTA, which represents 35,000 teachers in Maryland, will proceed with the process alone if necessary, Stonestreet said.

Federation Of Teachers Holds Annual Reception

The Garrett County Federation of Teachers and the Federation of Allegany County Teachers held their annual legislative reception at the Grantsville Holiday Inn, on Wednesday, December 4.

After a buffet dinner, Don Lipscomb, president of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, introduced the special guests.

Senator John Bambacus spoke about education reform for the future in face of the coming teacher shortage in the next three years. The Senator stated that teachers, parents and others besides the policy-makers must be involved in the decisions affecting education in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Delegate George Edwards and County Commissioner John Braskey spoke on behalf of legislation concerned with education. Both mentioned Civiletti 3A, which would require counties to contribute 25 percent to Civiletti monies received.

Betty Pitt, lobbyist for the Federation of Maryland Teachers, explained legislation that would allow teachers to retire after 25 years with full benefits, instead of after 30 years.

Others in attendance who spoke with the audience were Loretta Johnson, vice president of the Federation of Teachers and American Federation of Teachers; Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Garrett County superintendent of schools; Linda Golden, county commissioner from Allegany County; and Bob Chaney, president of the Federation of Allegany County Teachers.

Also attending were members of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Traffic, Safety Matters Highlight Council Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Accident Mayor and Town Council was held on Monday, December 9. Present were Mayor Wayne Fratz and Councilmen Hobert Bowser, Richard Carlson, James Smith, and Charles Strauss.

Request to SHA

The council suggested that a letter be sent to the office of the district engineer of the State Highway Administration in Cumberland relating to items of traffic and safety matters.

The first item concerned the dangerous curve on the Accident-Bittinger Road in the area adjacent to the old state roads garage property. The town's recommendation is that ideally the road should be re-aligned. Since this is a county-maintained road, the town suggested that the state make a study of the area and then contact the appropriate county officials directly to discuss any recommendations for improvement to this section of the Accident–Bittinger Road.

The situation has become more critical in recent years since this section of roadway is now more frequently used by school buses transporting students to the new Accident Elementary School. In addition, the U.S. Postal Service has now relocated to their new facility, and the parking lot entrance is very close to this curve.

The second item, related to concerns for pedestrian safety along Main Street. U.S. Route 219, has been resurfaced a number of times and is now at the same level as the sidewalk in a number of places. Vehicles frequently park on the sidewalk and there is little or no protection for the pedestrian from the moving traffic.

The town council also expressed appreciation for the recent work the State Highway Administration has done to improve storm drainage along U.S. Route 219 inside the town limits.

Financial Report

Copies of Accident's financial report for the year ending June 30 have been received from the auditing firm of Rodeheaver & Associates, Oakland. Any citizen desiring to review a copy of the report should contact Town Clerk Marjorie Fratz.

Town Garage

The town will be soliciting bids for installation of a coal furnace to heat the garage section of the Accident Municipal Building. Two new insulated garage doors have been installed to replace the old ones.

Nonprofit Postage Rates To Rise On New Year's

Preferred mail rates for nonprofit and other qualified mailers will be raised to Step 16 of the phasing schedule on January 1, 1986.

The Postal Service Governors today passed a resolution which stated, in part: "preferred rates will be adjusted, effective January 1, 1986, to step 16 of the rate phasing schedule adopted by the Governors on December 11, 1985."

Preferred rates currently are at step 16 levels.

Chairman John R. McKean of the Board of Governors pointed out that "appropriations for Fiscal 1986 continue at an annualized level of $785 million in accordance with a continuing appropriations resolution . . . due to expire on December 12, 1985."

McKean added the full House Appropriations Committee has reported a resolution under which "the Postal Service would receive a revenue foregone appropriation of $820 million for Fiscal 1986. That amount would be sufficient to keep preferred rates at step 14 until January 1, 1986, when they would increase to step 16."

"Although Congress has not yet taken definitive action," McKean stated, "it now appears clear that the revenue foregone appropriation will not exceed $820 million. Thus, preferred rates will have to be increased at least to the step 16 level on January 1, 1986."

McKean noted that if the final revenue foregone appropriation "is less than $820 million, we would expect to revisit this issue at a later date and consider whether any further action may be necessary."

"Revenue foregone" is funding Congress appropriates to cover the cost to the Postal Service of providing Congressional mandated free and reduced rates to certain postal customers. It is a subsidy for senders of those types of mail, not the Postal Service, and it covers the difference in what it costs the Postal Service to handle that mail and what the mailer pays for the service.

"Preferred rate" mailers include those that send third-class, bulk-rate, nonprofit mail (such as church bulletins or charitable solicitations); fourth-class library mail and certain second-class mail with limited circulation or falling into the category of in-country, nonprofit, classroom, science or agricultural media.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT NEWS

New Councilmen To Serve In Friendsville

The Friendsville Town Council will have two new council members to finish out the terms of Councilmen Jack Letz and Arthur Schmidt, both of who are moving out of state. The two new council members are Roger Doug Sines and Carroll Forsythe.

The "Welcome to Friendsville" sign has only three spaces left. Any Friendsville business or organization wishing a spot on the sign should contact Spencer Schlosnagle before January 1. Each space is a 24-inch by 24-inch metal plate costing $30. The last three spaces will be available on a first-come basis. After January 1, any remaining spaces will be offered for sale to businesses outside of town.

CPA Jeannie Devine, who was present at the council meeting, announced the audit for the fiscal year ending June 1985. She reported that the town had stayed within its budget for 1985.

The mayor and town council is planning a public meeting on February 4, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Friendsville Town Hall to discuss increasing revenues for the town's water and sewer system.

The rates currently in effect are basically the same as those initiated when the water and sewer plants became operational. Both plants are in need of repair and updating in order to bring them into compliance with state law. Additionally, throughout the past several years, the costs for operating the plants increased dramatically.

Since the rates currently charged for water and sewer service do not meet the present operational expenses, approximately $20,000 of general revenue funds must be transferred to the water and sewer fund just to meet normal expenses.

Before the mayor and council make any decisions on the present rate structure, they are holding the public meeting to inform the residents of the financial conditions that exist within the water and sewer budgets, and give residents a chance to voice their opinion or ask questions concerning the systems.

All those wishing to file a petition for an elected position on the council for either mayor or councilman, should do so on or before noon Monday, January 6. This can be done by contacting the town clerk, Lisa Hetzel, at 746-5919 or 895-5593.

The mayor and council reminds residents that Santa Claus will be visiting Friendsville. Persons should check town merchants' store windows for the announcement of dates and times.

Large Increase In Bond Sales Noted In October

Sales of United States Savings Bonds rose 48 percent to their highest October level since 1979, $481 million, as the year-long surge in Savings Bonds sales continued during the month. Sales in October 1984 were $325 million.

At the same time, October redemptions, at $384 million, were 12 percent below last year's total of $470 million and the lowest for any October since the $382 million recorded in 1971. October was the fourth consecutive month in which sales outpaced redemptions.

Edward J. Guss, Deputy Executive Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division, called the latest sales figures "spectacular." It is good news for the nation, he said, because every $1 billion in Bond sales saves taxpayers approximately $54 million over the life of the Bonds.

For the first 10 months of 1985, Savings Bonds sales have increased by 35 percent compared to last year, to a total of $4.56 billion. Redemptions for the 10 months declined 12 percent, to $4.71 billion. Treasury records show that more than 1.7 million people have begun buying Bonds regularly through the payroll savings plan, or have increased their rate of saving, since last October. More than nine million individuals buy Bonds annually. At the end of October, the total value of Savings Bonds held by Americans reached $78.75 billion, a seven percent increase from October 1984.

October was the last month in which a market-based rate of 9.49 per cent was effective for Bonds held five years or longer. On November 1, the rate became 8.36 percent, effective through April 1986. Market-based rates change each November 1 and May 1, and are set at 85 percent of the average market rates of five-year Treasury securities during the preceding six months.

The market-based rate for Series EE Bonds issued between November 1, 1985 and April 30, 1986 is 8.36% for their first semiannual interest period. Older Series EE and E Bonds and U.S. Savings Notes will also receive this market-based rate for six-month periods which start between November 1, 1985 and April 30, 1986.

The average yield for Bonds held since the beginning of the market-based rate program is 9.69%. Average yields for each May and November minimum guaranteed yield for Bonds held five years or longer is 7.5%.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

For more than 70 years, trees along roadsides, in public rights-of-way, have been protected by Maryland State Law. Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz and his staff work closely with the many crews who perform roadside tree maintenance so that the values of shade, color and beauty can be appreciated by residents and travelers. Because many rights-of-way are used for public utilities, both underground and overhead, the protection of roadside trees must be compatible with an efficient and dependable utility system.

The Maryland Roadside Tree Law enacted in 1914 to guard against unnecessary cutting and improper trimming practices. It was the first such law in the United States and was developed to protect Maryland's trees. The Forrest, Park and Wildlife Service, Department of Natural Resources, is responsible for the enforcement of the law. Under specific circumstances permits are given to care for roadside trees. Regulations have been adopted to provide for uniform supervision of tree maintenance crews and the tree care standards for work done on roadside trees. These tree care standards include trimming, removal, slash disposal, the use of herbicides and the selection and planning of new trees. The Roadside Tree Law requires utility companies to pay the salary and expenses of the Forest, Park and Wildlife Supervisor when the supervisor is inspecting the work of that company. Utilities and other public agencies have worked cooperatively with the Forrest, Park and Wildlife Service to guarantee that roadside trees receive the care and respect needed across the State.

For more information about the Roadside Tree Law and its importance to Garrett County, persons may contact Metz at 334-3296.

Occupational Injury, Illness Higher In 1984

Work-related injuries and illnesses in the private sector increased in 1984 according to data released by Dominic N. Fornaro, Maryland's Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

The latest survey, based on reports submitted during 1985 by Maryland employers, showed the incidence of injuries and illnesses occurred at a rate of 7.8 per 100 full-time workers in 1984 compared with an incidence rate of 7.6 in 1983. Maryland's 7.8 rate was lower than the national rate of 8.0 for the same period.

A 7.8 rate indicates one job-related injury or illness was reported for every 13 employees. The number of injuries and illnesses increased to 95.4 thousand in 1984 from 84.9 thousand in 1983. The number of lost workdays, a measure of injury or illness severity, increased to 749.8 thousand in 1984 from 623.5 thousand in 1983. The construction industry remained the leader in injuries and illnesses with a 15.7 rate. A continuing improvement in the economy was reflected by a 6.6% increase in work exposure hours.

Reported occupational injury and illness data are based on records that employers must maintain under the Maryland Occupational Safety and Health Act. Records are processed by the Division of Labor and Industry in cooperation with the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor. The Occupational Injuries and Illnesses Survey is a Federal/State cooperative statistical program which covers employers in private sector industries which had at least one employee during 1984. Excluded are the self-employed, farmers with fewer than 11 employees and private households.

Additional information on recordable occupational injuries and illnesses is available by contacting Ms. Letha Ticer, Division of Labor and Industry, Room N312, 501 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, Maryland, (301) 659-4202 or call toll free from within Maryland on 1-800-492-6226, Extension 4202.

Program Slated For Unemployed Older Workers

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging announced this week it is planning a training program for unemployed older workers over the age of 55. The training is in the field of home repair/home improvement.

The skill training will include carpentry, plumbing, electrical, and basic business skills. The goal is for the older workers to develop basic home improvement skills, in which they may already have some experience, and to secure a home improvement license in order to supplement their income as licensed home improvement contractors.

For more information about this program, persons may call the Area Agency on Aging at 334-2151 or 334-3990.

Energy Tips

by Patricia Driscoll Easterday
Extension Agent for Community Resource Development
For Allegany and Garrett Counties

As energy costs go up, more and more persons are turning their thermostats back in an effort to save on fuel bills.

People who are doing this, especially the very old and the very young, should be aware of hypothermia, or cold stress, which could be a life-threatening condition.

Hypothermia is low body temperature and is caused by exposure to the cold. It develops when body heat is lost to a cool or cold environment faster than it can be replaced.

Temperatures do not have to be freezing for the condition to develop—many older adults can develop it after exposure to mild cold, which would only produce discomfort in younger persons.

As body temperature falls, cold dulls the mental faculties to such a degree that the victim becomes too confused to recognize the danger and seek help.

When body temperature falls below 75 degrees, progressive physical and mental deterioration begins. Without medical treatment and rewarming, the victim could die.

Under normal conditions when there is a shortage of heat energy inside the body, the body responds by reducing blood flow to the skin and to the hands and feet.

This conserves heat, but if heat loss continues, shivering response is diminshed or absent, and they may not even feel the cold.

Certain medications can also impair the body's ability to regulate temperature and even increase the rate of heat loss. Some of these medications include antidepressants, sedatives, tranquilizers, cardiovascular preparations and alcohol.

Hypothermia is not always easy to recognize. Signs to look for are confusion, disorientation, apathy, skin that is cool or cold to the touch, stiff muscles, puffy or swollen face, poor coordination and slow breathing.

The only sure way to tell if someone has hypothermia is to take the body temperature. A special, low reading rectal thermometer is the only accurate instrument.

If you suspect hypothermia in an individual, stay calm, call for an ambulance or doctor, handle the person gently and protect the person from further cold by covering with a blanket.

If nothing else, cover the head and neck. Do not give a hot bath or shower, do not raise the legs, do not place hot water bottles on legs and feet, do not massage the legs or arms, do not give any food or drink or alcohol.

When you are lowering your thermostat this winter, be aware of the symptoms of hypothermia.

Do your best to prevent it by insulating yourself against the cooler temperatures. Dress warmly, tighten up your home by caulking and weatherstripping it, and eat properly so your body is strong.

For more information on hypothermia, contact your Cooperative Extension Service office, 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, Maryland 21502, telephone 724-3320 or 202 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, telephone 334-2145.

Information from the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service is available to all persons regardless of race, color, national origin, sex or handicap.

Project Reviews Conducted By Commission

The Sanitary Commission began its December 2 meeting with a discussion of the computer system used by the Sanitary District. The current system is being used to its full capacity, and a possibility of expanding the system was discussed. The Sanitary Commission gave its consent to expand the computer system.

Deep Creek Lake System

The underwater crossing at the Route 219 bridge is 60 percent complete. Walker Diving Contractors are presently digging the trench for the pipe. The work is all done from the surface, however, all of the six-man crew are equipped to dive down to the construction site if necessary. Construction should be complete by the end of December or mid-January.

The commission passed a resolution to refinance $793,000 from local lending institutions. The loan will be extended for a 30-month period at a more favorable interest rate.

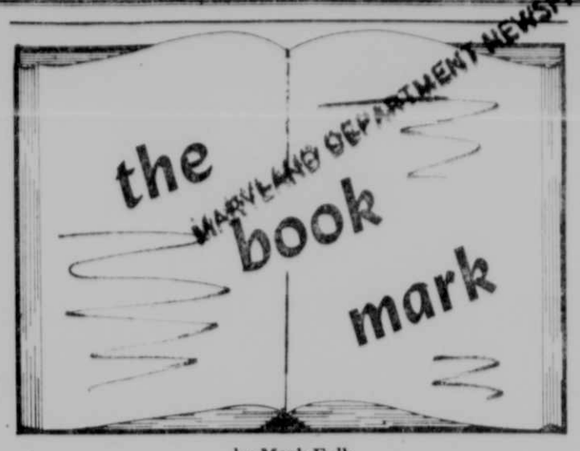
Recent heavy rains, causing high flows through the system, raised the water level in private septic tanks, flooding the system's grinder pumps. It appears that the commission must require people to start unhooking their septic tanks. The district plans to assist with those disconnections.

The district is still attempting to solve the problem at Will O' the Wisp, and are proceeding with the installation of a new pump system and a larger sewer line.

Kitzmiller

The recent heavy rains and flooding apparently changed the flow of mine drainage discharge, or raised the water table, releasing a large volumn of mine drainage upstream from the water intake of the Kitzmiller water system. This mine drainage had never been a problem before. This drainage decreased the Ph level, causing iron deposits and staining on the water impoundment. The district increased the amount of chemicals used, and the water quality shows dramatic improvements. Meanwhile, because the discharge is upgrade from the water intake, the district has been able to divert the mine drainage, and it is no longer getting into the water supply.

Bloomington Sewer



All grant-related documents have been submitted to the State Health Department for approval. The commission requested additional funds for the Bloomington project to cover a substancial portion of the increased costs that resulted because the bids were higher than the design estimate.

Kitzmiller Sewer

The HUD grant for Kitzmiller has been adjusted to cover the additional local share and the user rates will be maintained at the levels presented in the plans. The sanitary district anticipates no major problems with the Kitzmiller system, and should be in a position to award contracts in one month. The commission feels that the state will provide additional needed funding.

Gorman Sewer

The district will review the design of the proposed Gorman sewer system to see if there is any way of reducing the construction costs. If drastic cost reductions cannot be implemented, the project will be abandoned.

I recently discovered a grouping of four novels, and a collector of three short stories, written by well-known authors Stephen King and Rex Stout. The first of these is The Bachman Books by Stephen King, This is a grouping of four complete novels originally published under King's pen name, Richard Bachman.

The first of these is Rage, which King began as a senior in high school. I did not find it as good as the others, but it does show a developing writing talent on King's part.

The Long Walk is a suspenseful tale of men running a 450-mile marathon, where death is the only separation between them and the finish line.

Roadwork was written in the advent of King's mother death of cancer. It is the story of a man fighting the forces of fate and society.

The best of these is The Running Man, a novel that concerns a futuristic game show where contestants face armed killers and, if they live, they win billions of dollars.

If you are a Nero Wolfe man, then a group of three recently-discovered short stories may be your cup of tea. This book, called Death Times Three by Rex Stout, has some very intriguing and complex murder mysteries.

In "Assault at the Brownstone", Wolfe faces lies, counterfeiting, and a hit-and-run slaying. In "Bitter End", a company's head dies after a defect is found in the product he produces. And, in "Frame-up For Murder", an elite fashion designer's shop is the setting of the murder of a women who everyone hated. These stories are what you come to expect from Rex Stout.

Next time, I will be taking a look at the phenomenal Lake Wobegon Days, and the new novel by the author of the Eden series.

TV's Gold Award Goes to "Inside Your Schools"

"Inside Your Schools," a monthly television magazine program produced by the American Federation of Teachers, has received the coveted Gold Award from the International Film and TV Festival.

The AFT program was judged in the category for TV news programs with a magazine format.

"Inside Your Schools" was judged to be of the highest quality of all the television magazines entered," Festival sponsors said in presenting the AFT with the award. "IYS" competed with numerous commercial productions for this award.

The 28th annual International Film and TV Festival awards were presented earlier this month at a black-tie gala in New York. Receiving the award for the AFT was IYS Executive Producer John Stevens.

Phylicia Ayers-Allen, star of NBC's "The Cosby Show," was mistress of ceremonies for the awards program. More than 1,500 television, film, music and industrial communication leaders from around the world attended the New York event.

"The Gold Award is a real shot in the arm for 'Inside Your Schools' because it signified that this program is of high quality with mass appeal to all facets of our society," said executive producer Stevens.

The half-hour show airs monthly on several hundred PBS and cable stations nationwide.

IYS regularly features timely series on topics ranging from child abuse to bilingual education to the environment.

Here and There

For the first time in 13 years, the number of students attending the nation's public schools is slated to go up. The National Center for Education Statistic predicts that a "mini" baby boom will send millions of children into preprimary and kindergarten classes during the rest of the decade.

This school year should see an increase of about 40,000 students at the first stage in the increase. The rise will bring the nation's public elementary and secondary student population to 38.98 million.

Textbook Costs

Book Research Quarterly, published by the University of Scranton shows some revealing statistics on what is spent on textbooks in public schools. A recent issue reveals that the average school system spends over $2,500 a year to educate a student, yet less than $20 of that is committed to textbooks and related materials.

One-Room Schools

According to Principal magazine, there were 835 one-room/one-teacher schools still in use in the U.S. in 1984. Nebraska led the country, with 360 one-room schools, followed by South Dakota and Montana, with each having about 100 of the schools.

Local Hospice Personnel Visit Carroll County

Three members of Hospice of Garrett County and the Garrett County Home Health Agency traveled to Westminster recently to share information about forming a Hospice program in Carroll County through the local health department.

Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Norma Bolding, R.N., director of Home Health Agency, and Jackie Snelson, R.N., Hospice coordinator and home health nurse, discussed with members of Carroll County Home Health and other interested persons how Hospice of Garrett County was founded in 1982. Mrs. Bolding explained the historical organization and need for a hospice in Garrett County. Johnson reviewed administrative procedures concerning coordination of volunteers, home health, the board of directors, public relations, budget, fundraising, use of volunteers and auxiliary members, and educational programs.

"Hospice is a growing facet of our society and an important part of our lives now," said Ms. Snelson. "It can make a real difference in the last days of one's life and also the lives of their families during this stressful time."

Persons who have questions or interests in Hospice may call 334-8111 or 895-3111, or visit Hospice in Room 304 of the Garrett County Health Department.

Hughes Pledges No General Tax Increase In '86

Governor Harry Hughes said this week that growth in Maryland's revenues will make it unnecessary to ask for a general tax increase next year.

His remarks followed a report from the Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates that it had increased its estimate of fiscal '86 revenue by more than $70 million.

"I'm very pleased," Governor Hughes said. "I believe this report shows that Maryland is one of the healthiest states in the nation, from a fiscal standpoint."

In its report to the Governor, the board said it had raised its estimates "largely because of higher lottery revenues, real estate transfer tax revenues and construction activity."

The board also said that in contrast with the national economic outlook, Maryland's economy "continues to expand briskly," with unemployment declining at the same time the number of available jobs has grown.

The Governor said he wasn't surprised by the increase, because "we have experienced a very health growth in our economy here in Maryland, with one of the lowest unemployment rates in the nation."

He said the higher revenues confirm that the State will be able to solve its savings and loan problem in a timely fashion without placing an undue burden on taxpayers.

"We want to get the depositors their money as quickly as we can under reasonable circumstances," he said.

In addition to a "savings and loan reserve," the Governor said the new revenues cold help fund initiatives in areas of "housing, education, juvenile services and battered spouse programs."

McDougald Says "Wrap It Right"

Baltimore Sectional Center Manager/Postmaster James A. McDougald has offered the following advice to customers who want to be sure their holiday parcels get delivered.

★Give yourself some cushion. Cushioning absorbs and distributes shock and vibration. Examples of good cushioning materials are foamed plastics, corrugated cardboard and loose fill materials such as polystyrene, popcorn or shredded newspaper. Loose fill material should completely cover the items being mailed.

★Close parcels up right. Use tape, not string or rope, to close packages. Cellophane and masking tape should not be used. Pressure sensitive, filament-reinforced tape is recommended and should be wrapped around the parcel at least twice.

★Addresses are important. You can spend a fortune on wrapping, but your package will never reach its destination if it is not addressed right. Print or type the address clearly on one side of the parcel only. It is also a good idea to put the name and address inside the package in case the address label comes off.

★Don't mail your pet elephant. Packages must not exceed 70 pounds. They must also be at least 3½ inches wide and 5 inches long, and total length and girth cannot exceed 108 inches.

★Don't overinsure. If your parcel is valuable, you might want to insure it only for its actual value. The Postal Service pays claims based on the actual value or lost or damaged items and not a higher insured amount.

"If you follow these six suggestions, it'll help us get your package where it's going on time, in good shape," Postmaster McDougald said.

State Police Join National Effort To Curb Drunk, Drugged Driving

Maryland Governor Harry Hughes has designated this week, December 15-21, as Maryland Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week.

Maryland joins the nation following President Ronald Reagan proclaiming this week as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week for the fourth consecutive year.

The State Police has pledged to continue its efforts, especially over the holiday season, to identify and arrest those persons who insist on driving after having too much to drink.

With this campaign's special emphasis the Maryland State Police hope to heighten the public's awareness of the tragedies associated with drinking and driving and provide a substantial deterrence to drinking drivers. Maryland's troopers will be out in force. Regular patrols are being augmented by troopers on an overtime basis with the funds for this project being provided as part of a $140,000 Maryland Department of Transportation grant for DWI enforcement. State Police will also set up sobriety checkpoints in several areas around the state.

Four basic areas of responsibilities are being emphasized for citizens during this week-long campaign throughout the holiday season.

Know your limits. Charts are available to be used as a guide to help persons stay safely within safe drinking limits. People who are attending social events during the holiday season must recognize and accept the responsibility of knowing their limitations. One ounce of 80-proof liquor is equal to five ounces of table wine which is equal to a 12-ounce can of beer.

Report suspected drunk drivers. In continuing a successful program, citizens are being asked to become involved in the fight against drunk driving. State and local police agencies need citizen help in identifying and reporting those drivers who insist on driving after having too much to drink. A person observing a suspected drunk driver can report that driver to police by using the CB radio, telephone, or makeing direct contact with police. All State Police installations and some local police agencies monitor CB channel 9.

Be a friend, then a host. Don't let intoxicated guests leave your home and drive. Persons who serve alcoholic beverages when entertaining must consider assuming a certain amount of responsibility. Some suggestions would be to make non-alcoholic beverages available at your party and make plenty of snacks. Food slows down the rate at which alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream and nibbling slows down the rate at which people drink. If a host or hostess observes someone has had too much to drink, suggest that someone else drive them home. Offer that guest a place to stay overnight, call a taxi, or when all other measures fail, call police to prevent them from driving.

The more alcohol you drink, the worse you drive. Alcohol slows down the activity of the brain and nervous system and impairs six basic skills needed for driving. Those skills are reaction time, vision, judgment, comprehension, sense of touch, and motor performance. Without these much needed skills your ability to operate a motor vehicle is greatly impaired.

Always buckle up. The use of safety belts is the greatest protection you have against drunk and drugged drivers. Restrain yourself and your family just in case. All occupants of motor vehicles should be urged to buckle up before every trip.

Police say motorists should also be aware of the problems regarding drugs and driving. Prescription drugs are a prime example. Many of them impair driving skills as seriously as alcohol or street drugs. Antihistamines, tranquilizers, and any medication containing a narcotic reduce reflex action and limit judgment. When mixed with drinking and driving, the effects are even worse.

In Maryland, and throughout the country, the number of deaths and injuries on highways could be lessened dramatically by changing attitudes and behavior, say the State Police, who urge all motorists to obey the speed limits, not drink and drive and always use safety belts and child passenger safety seats for children.

Book Tells Of Area Restaurants

Five Garrett County restaurants and their recipes are featured in the recently published book, "Maryland's Historic Restaurants". Authors Dawn O'Brien and Rebecca Schenck highlighted 50 Maryland restaurants including the five in Garrett County and four in Allegany County.

The 204-page hardback book sells for $12.95 and tells of The Casselman's shoofly pie, Penn Alps' chicken stuffing, Cornish Manor's Cornish pudding, PC's 1897 Saloon and Eatery's curried apple wedges and Chimney Corner's raised buckwheat cakes, along with Allegany County's Bistro's onion soup, L'Osteria's veal Maria, Warner's German Restaurant's apple strudel, and Au Petit Paris's coq au vin.

Each restaurant feature opens with a pen and ink drawing print, a concise historical summary and account of the authors' dining experience, location, hours, telephone and selected specialty recipes.

Both authors are established writers and travel, history and food lovers. Governor Harry Hughes endorsed the book by saying, "Take your time and travel across Maryland from the Atlantic Ocean to the mountains. Slow down and sample the foods of the famous and not-so-famous restaurants and country inns mentioned here. Take this book along and have the chefs autograph it for you. They're as proud of their food as we are of our state."

For giving them direction in the preparation of this book, the authors acknowledged Cindy Kutchman, former director of the Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake Promotional Council, and Jo Beynon, director of Allegany's Tourism and Public Relations Office.

Copies of the book are available in Oakland at The Book Mark'et on Alder Street.

Daniel Greene kicks off TV series career

By Gregory Garver

So you want to be an actor. Here's the secret: Make sure you're a handsome hunk, and win a football scholarship to Florida State University. Just look at the actors who have been Florida grid stars. First there was Burt Reynolds. Then Robert Urich. Now there's Daniel Greene.

Daniel Greene

Greene, all 6-feet-3, 195-pounds of him, has joined "Falcon Crest" as Dwayne Cooley. "They knew what they wanted with Dwayne," Greene, 30, says, "but the character isn't far from home. I'm playing me."

Greene may be green when it comes to acting, but he recognizes his good fortune. The actor comes from a loving family — his parents are still married after 33 years — and he was raised in Coral Gables, Fla. His father ran a photography studio, and Greene claims he grew up "without any identity crisis."

The all-around athlete and defensive back says he considered a career in professional football, but a knee injury ended that dream. Besides, he adds, he had gotten fed up with the demands of football.

"I always had acting in the back of my mind," he says. "After I graduated — I had majored in international affairs — I came to Los Angeles on vacation, fell in love with acting and decided to give it a shot." Greene moved back to Florida, and saved money by working in a Miami health club, assisting his father and tending bar. He made his move west in 1980, and has never regretted it.

"I was lucky from the start," he says. "I never had to go through a phase of being a struggling actor. I didn't have any connections here, but the first agent I saw signed me and I began doing commercials, which paid my rent, food and acting lessons."

He's still sailing. "I've had a happy life," he says, "and it's getting better all the time. There's nothing I'd rather do than pick up a script, put my personality into the part and get paid for it."

Mickey Mouse (l.) and Donald Duck star in "Mickey's Christmas Carol," an animated and Disneyfied version of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." The movie airs Sunday, Dec. 22 on NBC.

SUNDAY

Edward Woodward stars as the Ghost of Christmas Present and George C. Scott portrays Ebenezer Scrooge in "A Christmas Carol," a small-screen adaptation of Dickens' classic airing Sunday, Dec. 22 on CBS. (Rebroadcast)

BEHIND THE SCENES

Artist finds TV series bearable fun for kids

By Frank Loveee

You can teach an old bear new tricks. As Stan and Jan Berenstain are discovering, the job of turning their "Berenstain Bears" children's books into Saturday-morning cartoons means relearning some of the craft they've shared for 40 years.

Some Berenstain Bears

The husband-and-wife team had already worked on five "Berenstain Bears" NBC specials, which are now circulating on HBO. The animated cuties can now be seen on a CBS Saturday morning cartoon series.

The luxury of television budgets didn't prepare them, however, for the grind of producing weekly series.

"We're spending almost all our book time on the show," explains the grandfatherly, 62-year-old Berenstain. "Calling it 'draining' is a nice way to put it. It's exhausting, but we love it. We had been hoping to do a Saturday-morning series for a long time." They finally got one, after holding out for that TV-industry rarity, creative control.

The Saturday series, like the fifty-odd "Bears" books, focuses on bumbling Papa Bear; sensible, stable Mama Bear, and cubs Brother and Sister Bear. The artwork is simple, though the stories can be surprisingly complex. A recent tale dealt with child-abuse. "We tried to get across the idea," says Berenstain, "that not just strange-looking people can be dangerous. Often a very plausible-looking, button-down type can be a dangerous stranger."

The bears' migration to Saturday morning also wasn't simple. Items that work in books — like checked shirts — aren't easily animated. And, of course, there's never enough time.

"When the network finally decided to buy the property and slot it for the fall," Berenstain recalls, sounding more like a lawyer than a cartoonist, "it was already late spring. We had to scramble." They plotted all the stories themselves, but "there was just not time for us to write all the scripts," he adds. "Then we had such a hard time finding good writers at first that we ended up rewriting a lot."

After each cartoon is scripted and "storyboarded" — drawn comic-strip style as a guide for the animation artists — it's sent to Australia to be completed. "There's a lot of shipping things back and forth in airplanes, and having to find them in customs," Berenstain chuckles. "It took some of the animators a while to learn how to draw the characters, but the last couple of shows were done beautifully."

STAR STYLE

Trevor Eve keeps fit by practicing yoga

By Renee Ross

Keeping in shape is a major preoccupation on both sides of the Atlantic, says British actor Trevor Eve.

Trevor Eve

"Exercise may not get as much media coverage in England as in the United States, but the obsession is certainly there," says Eve, who stars as zany private eye Jonathon MacKensie in the new ABC series "Shadow Chasers."

The six-foot, 180-pound actor's roles have ranged from playing former Beatle Paul McCartney in an award-winning British stage show to a featured role in the film "Dracula" to a starring role in the former British TV series "Shoestring."

His nonstop schedule makes frequent stress-breaking workouts a must, Eve explains. "I have lots of energy and need some form of physical exercise," the actor says. "When you exercise, your brain functions better, and you become generally clearer and energized. I exercise every day one way or another, usually in a gym."

A recent family vacation in the Caribbean introduced Eve to the fitness joys of yoga. "I'd never had anything to do with yoga before," he says. "I'd always thought it was a question of sitting down and going 'Ommm.' But I met a yoga teacher and took some classes. It was quite wonderful.

"It was also exhausting; an hour and a half of yoga is like working out in a gym," the actor adds. "Yoga continually corrects your body. My teacher told me that when I work out in a gym, I only build my body and increase my faults. If, for example, my spine twists to the right, when I exercise, I'll emphasize that.

"We're all out of physical alignment," says Eve. "Yoga helps realign your body so you can continue exercise in perfect balance. You don't accentuate your faults. You're bringing your body into the position it was meant to be in.

"It was fascinating to learn all this," the actor concludes. "And it certainly helped to be practicing yoga on a white-sand Caribbean beach! It just isn't the same waking up on a cold, gray London morning to do yoga."

Beverly Sills (l.) got her start on Major Bowes' CBS show way back when. Miss Sills will be saluted on "The Kennedy Center Honors: A Celebration of the Performing Arts," airing Friday, Dec. 27 on CBS.

Skelton sees red over future of TV shows

By Cindy Adams

Red Skelton owns his golden oldie TV shows. His will specifies that all 800 of them be destroyed upon his death. Skelton does not want them shredded for insertion into modern comedy shows, does not want himself sold by the part like a chicken, does not want young stars who didn't really know or appreciate his work to pick and choose. Those offers, the funny man says, he can refuse.

Red Skelton

If Skelton can strike a deal whereby his shows remain intact, fine. Otherwise, the classic sitcoms are going to see red — as in flames. Skelton is adamant about this, claiming his beliefs stem from three years of rejection. Says Red: "If the networks think I'm passe, that my comedy isn't relevant today, I won't let them profit from me when I'm gone."

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Lockerman's bio info; Davies' soapy past

By Kimberly Redmond

Please tell me everything about Bradley Lockerman, the actor who plays Zed Diamond on "Capitol." The actor is sexy and my friends and I love him! — C.P., Hickory, N.C.

My cousin and I have been arguing for months over whether Lane Davies, the actor who portrays Mason Capwell on "Santa Barbara," also appeared on another soap. I say he was; my cousin says he wasn't. — L.S., Trenton, N.J.

Davies appeared as Evan Whyland on "Days of Our Lives" about a year before he was chosen to portray the dastardly Mason on "Santa Barbara." Interestingly, Davies never caught on with the "Days" viewers when he played Whyland, yet the actor was an instant success when he began portraying Capwell.

Bradley Lockerman

I can't tell you everything about Lockerman, C.P., but I can tell you something. The actor studied three semesters of chemistry before leaving college to work at a variety of jobs, including stints as a truck driver and a nightclub bouncer. He later moved to New York City, and while there, worked as a male model and TV commercials actor. Lockerman studied acting and eventually landed his role on "Capitol." The role marks his first professional acting job. By the way, Lockerman was born in Conn., now lives in Westwood, Calif., and yes, is single.

OK, A.D.F., now it's my turn. I'm in love with Johnson too! The actor will receive your mail if you write to him c/o his official fan club, 2895 Biscayne Blvd., P.O. Box 395, Miami, Fla. 33137. Mark the letters to the attention of Laurie Byers.

My 9-year-old granddaughter, who is confined to a wheelchair because of a spinal problem, loves John Ritter. I would love to give her his photo. Do you know where I can get one? — J.I.P., Naples, Fla.

Ritter will be joining Henry Winkler and Wayne Newton for the United Cerebral Palsy/Spastic Children's Foundation's telethon, airing Jan. 18-19. Your best bet would be to write to the comedian c/o of the organization. The address is 16119 Vanown St., Van Nuys, CA 91406.

I have not seen "Dallas" or "Falcon Crest" for three weeks because our local station manager airs local sports coverage during their time slots. My two favorite shows then air after midnight. Isn't this illegal? Don't sponsors of these shows pay for primetime exposure? — M.J.P., Duluth, Minn.

Sponsors do pay for primetime, but whether or not they can ask for a refund depends on the size of the market. A spokesperson at CBS says the local station must notify the network that it has preempted regular programming. "Then we yell and scream," says the CBS source. Since your area is not as populous as New York or Chicago, for instance, there probably isn't any refund involved. The producer, Lorimar, gets the same amount of money despite when the shows are aired. Lorimar (3970 Overland Ave., Culver City, CA 90230) would be interested in hearing your beef.

Board Reports State Economy Expands Briskly

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates, consisting of State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein (chairman), State Treasurer William S. James and State Budget Secretary H. Louis Stettler III, Friday, presented its estimates of state revenue for the remainder of fiscal year 1986 and for fiscal year 1987 to Governor Harry Hughes. At its Annapolis meeting with the governor, the board increased its earlier estimates of fiscal year 1986 revenue by $70.8 million, largely because of higher lottery revenues, real estate transfer tax revenues and construction activity.

"These additional revenues, when combined with Maryland's $47.6 million unobligated general fund balance at the close of fiscal year 1985, mean that Governor Hughes has $118.4 million in additional revenue to fund deficiency appropriations in the current fiscal year and to help fund the fiscal year 1987 budget now being finalized," Goldstein said.

The board projected that overall general funds available to finance the budget for fiscal year 1987 would total $4,545,963,000, a growth of 8.4% over the $4,195,186,000 expected to be available in the current fiscal year.

In contrast with the national economic picture, which calls for slow growth, the Board of Revenue Estimates said Maryland's economy continues to expand briskly. The board's report pointed out that total employment in Maryland has grown at a 20% higher than normal rate since 1982, when viewed in the context of the business cycle. Especially encouraging is the fact that unemployment has declined as the number of jobs has expanded, Goldstein said.

Maryland personal income is expected to grow by 7.4% in 1985, by 7.0% in 1986 and by 7.2% in 1987. "Individual income tax revenue should produce more than $2 billion for the general fund in fiscal year 1987 for the first time," Goldstein said. "This growth means we will be sending back an additional $1 billion to local governments as their local income tax."

The board noted that the construction sector of Maryland's economy continues to grow at a pace that is 45% stronger than normal for this stage of the business cycle, and continues to boost retail sales and use tax revenue. Sales tax revenue should total nearly $1.2 billion in fiscal year 1986 and nearly $1.3 billion in fiscal year 1987.

Lottery revenues, which has become the third largest source of general fund revenue, is expected to produce $301.8 million for the general fund during the current fiscal year and $313.7 million in fiscal year 1987, reflecting the growing level of ticket sales.

Aside from general fund revenues, the Board of Revenue Estimates also projects transportation-related revenues each year. The surge in motor vehicle sales, encouraged by lower interest rates, caused the board to increase its earlier estimate of motor vehicle titling tax revenue by $25 million, to $270 million for the current fiscal year. Total transportation revenue from state sources should reach nearly $705 million for fiscal year 1986.

Holiday Program Is Scheduled At Zion Tabernacle

A three-part Christmas program will be presented this Friday, December 20, at 7 p.m. at Zion Tabernacle, Grantsville. The program will be presented by students of Zion School of Christian Education and Zion Christian Academy.

The first section will be the Zion School Band under the direction of Dr. George McDowell Jr. Following this will be a pageant, "Hope of the World," by the Academy elementary grades, under the direction of Mrs. Roger Mealey. The third part of the program will be a modern-day play, "The Boss Who Lost Christmas." This is the first showing of an original play written and directed by Dr. McDowell.

Correction Noted

It was incorrectly stated in last week's edition of The Republican that Ruby Rosenbaum, Rowlesburg, W. Va., made a new Santa suit for Lou "Grizzly" Stouffer, the man who delivers food, toys and clothing to the needy every Christmas. The correct name of the seamstress is Ruby Baumgartner.

Ruby was one of the many flood victims who lost many of their possessions in the November flood. We regret the error as we want to give credit where credit is due.

Local Hospice Personnel Visit Carroll County

Three members of Hospice of Garrett County and the Garrett County Home Health Agency traveled to Westminster recently to share information about forming a Hospice program in Carroll County through the local health department.

Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Norma Bolding, R.N., director of Home Health Agency, and Jackie Snelson, R.N., Hospice coordinator and home health nurse, discussed with members of Carroll County Home Health and other interested persons how Hospice of Garrett County was founded in 1982. Mrs. Bolding explained the historical organization and need for a hospice in Garrett County. Johnson reviewed administrative procedures concerning coordination of volunteers, home health, the board of directors, public relations, budget, fundraising, use of volunteers and auxiliary members, and educational programs.

"Hospice is a growing facet of our society and an important part of our lives now," said Ms. Snelson. "It can make a real difference in the last days of one's life and also the lives of their families during this stressful time."

Persons who have questions or interests in Hospice may call 334-8111 or 895-3111, or visit Hospice in Room 304 of the Garrett County Health Department.

Jump-Starting May Result In Eye Injuries

Stalled cars with dead batteries are a potential cold-weather hazard. Knowing the correct way to jump-start a dead auto battery could save motorists from serious eye injuries or possible blindness, says the National Society to Prevent Blindness (NSPB).

According to the Society, an estimated 17,796 people treated in hospital emergency rooms last year for battery-related injuries. Of those, 19,347 were to the eyes. These statistics do not include visits to physicians offices or clinics.

The Society urges individuals to wear safety goggles when working with or around cars and car batteries. NSPB also suggests these following safety precautions when jump-starting any vehicle:

—Wear eye protection.

—Keep sparks, flames and cigarettes away from batteries at all times.

—Don't lean over batteries during jump-starting.

Before attempting a jump-start, the Society says:

—Consult your owner's manual for instructions.

—Make sure the cars are not touching.

—Make sure the emergency brakes are set.

—Make certain the ignitions of both vehicles are off.

—Make sure both vehicles are in neutral or park.

—Check voltage of both batteries to make sure they are the same (owner's manual).

To jump-start:

—Determine the positive and negative terminals on each battery.

—Clamp one cable to the positive terminal of the dead battery.

—Connect the other end of this cable to the positive terminal of the good battery.

—Clamp the second cable to the negative terminal of the good battery.

—Connect the other end of this cable to the frame or any non-painted metallic surface, such as the engine block, of the disabled car, away from the battery.

—Stand back from both vehicles.

—Start car with good battery first.

—Start the disabled car.

When choosing battery cables, the Society recommends they be at least 12 feet in length, heavy gauge wire, well insulated, have sharp and clean alligator clips, and be color-coded to avoid wrong connections.

The Society has these jump-start recommendations graphically listed on a bright yellow vinyl sticker. For a copy, persons should send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016.

Founded in 1908, the Society is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research.

Services for Christmas Eve at the churches of the Bittinger parish are: St. John's, 7 p.m.; Zion's, 8:30 p.m.; and Emmanuel's, 10 p.m.

Members are once again asked to save their cancelled stamps with one third of the envelope for the LCW project.

Next Sunday's loose offering will go to World Hunger.

A special Christmas program will be presented on Christmas Eve at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a drama, the youth chorus and parts with the children participating.

This Sunday evening, December 22, the Youth group from the Cherry Glade Church will distribute Christmas boxes in the community, and sing carols. There was a Christmas hymn sing at the church on the past Sunday evening.

A special Christmas program will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday, December 22. There will be special music by the choir and others and the children will present parts of the program.

At Zion's congregational meeting on December 8, a budget for the coming year was adopted and Mrs. Clara Durst and Edgar Resh were elected to serve on the church council for terms of three years.

Subscriptions for the World in Season are now due at Emmanuel. Each subscription costs $2.40 and should be given to Dorothy Teets.

Group Goes Caroling

After Sunday morning worship services at Emmanuel the following persons went to Leonora Buckel's home to sing Christmas carols: Mrs. Kenneth Buckel, Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Lowery, Betty Buckel, Ethel Buckel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brenneman, Lottie Brenneman, Margaret Hershberger, Audrey Brenneman, Ferne Beachy, Cindy Stanton, children Aaron and Lea, Doris Knox, Rose Buckel, John Moon and Maxine Legeer.

The same group then went to the home of Lawrence Buckel and sang carols for him.

LCW Meets

Emmanuel's LCW met on Friday evening at the home of Phyllis Buckel for the annual Christmas program and party. There were 16 present, and Mrs. Buckel presented the program, "Journey for Peace." A special offering was taken for flood relief, and another offering to be sent to the synodical unit. Carols were sung during the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Beulah Moon, president, reported on the World Relief articles given by the group and to the flood victims in Garrett County and neighboring West Virginia.

Zion's LCW Meets

The Lutheran Church women of Zion, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on December 10, with 10 members present.

Leota Baker presented the topic "Time to Reflect," which provided devotional resources for Advent and the Christmas season. The program included Scripture texts and meditations from the prophecy through to the birth of Jesus, with special tribute to Mary and Joseph. Special Scriptures included the Beatitudes of Elizabeth, Mary's Magnificat and Zechariah's Song.

"O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung by the group, with Mrs. Alta Broadwater leading the music. The program was concluded with the reading of the Song of Simeon from St. Luke's Gospel.

Mrs. Nellie Yommer presided over the business meeting, which she opened with the scripture reading and prayer. Minutes of the October and November meetings were read by Mrs. Joe Resh.

Correspondence received included the "Lutheran Women" promoter's handbook, the Koinonia and literature from Youth and Family services in Zelionople. LCW guidelines were distributed.

A memorial thank offering was received in memory of Rev. Stanley Armentrout and his daughter, Melissa. Gift offerings were received as tributes to the memory of Clyde Yommer and Norman Baker at Christmas and were forwarded to Lutheran Church Women for Specific Ministries.

It was noted that everyone who has saved their cancelled stamps for the National Lutheran Home for the Aged should bring them to the church early in January. Projects for the coming year were discussed with plans including Rocky Boy Lutheran Indian Mission in Montana.

The meeting adjourned with the singing of "Silent Night" and the missionary benediction. The next meeting is scheduled for January 7.

The Civic Club Of Oakland— 75 Years Old And Going Strong

by Pam Ashby

Some 75 years later, under the service of 33 presidents and with nearly a quarter of a million dollars donated to charity and community non-profit organizations, the Civic Club of Oakland celebrates a birthday.

The Civic Club was organized in 1911 with Miss Thekla Fundenburg (Weeks) serving as the first president. In 1916, the club joined the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Maryland Federation.

According to the by-laws of the Civic Club, the object of this organization shall be for the purpose of mutual benefit and for the promotion of their common interest in educational, civic, social and moral measures for individual and community efficiency.

The Civic Club has taken an active part in supporting community projects. Even though the club was technically inactive during the World War II years (1941-46) members of the club at that time engaged in knitting and bandage rolling for the Red Cross to aid in the war cause.

The club continues to serve the community in many ways today. Through fundraisers, such as the Autumn Glory Antique Show and Sale every October, the club, in turn, donates money raised to aid worthwhile causes.

This year alone, the club donated $3,000 to Habitat for Humanity, $2,000 to flood relief, $1,550 to the Ruth Enlow Library, $500 to Garrett Community College through the Patience Grant Scholarship Fund and additional donations to the rescue squads, fire departments, scouts, handicapped, House of Hope and the Garrett County Arts Council.

The 78-strong membership decorates over 50 trees for the patients at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home every year and buys gifts for the patients with no families. Another Christmas project of the club is donating money to the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce for the annual children's Christmas treat. The members then treat themselves to a Christmas luncheon.

Presidents serving for the past 75 years, with some serving two or more terms, include: Mrs. E. H. Sincell, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Mrs. R. E. Sliger, Mrs. J. C. Renninger, Mrs. James Willison, Mrs. Paul Naylor, Mrs. J. L. Pollock, Mrs. C. Milton Sincell, Miss Lottie Loar, Mrs. Earl Zepp, Mrs. William Grant Sr., Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner, Mrs. E. Ray Jones, Miss Mary K. Williams, Mrs. O. T. Graser, Mrs. Henry McComas, Mrs. Charles Paugh Sr., Mrs. Stuart Hamill Jr., Mrs. Robert Wooters, Mrs. John O. Durst, Mrs. Jay L. Bell, Mrs. Paul T. Calderwood, Mrs. William Grant Jr., Mrs. James A. Riley, Mrs. James Panther, Mrs. Arleigh Hauser, Mrs. Donald Carstens, Mrs. Aloise O'Neill and the current president, Mrs. Dawn Scheffel.

The club meets at the Will O' the Wisp the last Tuesday of every month, except for the months of July, December and January. Those desiring more information on the Civic Club may call Dawn Scheffel at 334-8262.

District Court Cases Reported

In Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, Judge Jack Turney found an Oakland man to be guilty of disorderly conduct in a public place.

William R. Teets, 25, was sentenced to 35 days in jail. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing him on six months unsupervised probation and ordering him to pay a fine and court cost within 30 days.

The charge was filed by Cpl. Ron Beeghly, Oakland City Police Department.

In other court cases, the judge sentenced David E. Liller, 24, Oakland, after reading a pre-sentence investigation report.

Liller received a 60-day sentence, which was then suspended. The judge then placed him on 18 months supervised probation.

Liller had been found guilty of a charge of disorderly conduct filed by Cpl. Beeghly following an October 2 incident at P.C.'s. According to court reports, the bartender asked Liller to leave, and he refused. Cpl. Beeghly then asked him twice to leave, and Liller refused him also.

Liller was also fined $100, ordered to stay out of P.C.'s and to receive alcohol therapy and counseling from the Garrett County Health Department, and told to refrain from any use of alcohol.

The judge sentenced Carroll T. Ross, 33, Cumberland to 18 months after reading a pre-sentence investigation report. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing Ross on 18 months supervised probation.

Ross had been found guilty of a February 21 theft at Garrett Crossroads.

Ross was also sentenced for a theft of $180 from Charles Bucklew. He was sentenced to 18 months, which was then suspended. The judge then placed him on 18 months supervised probation, to run concurrently with the probation in the first case.

Ross was also sentenced for a theft of $180 from Richard Bennett which occurred in February. For this charge, he was ordered to perform 100 hours of community service in a social service facility, seek theraputic counseling, and make restitution of $180 to Charles Bucklew and $180 to Richard Bennett by January 9.

Ross was represented by John F. Summerville, Jr., a Cumberland attorney.

The judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Larry M. Bittinger, 18, Grantsville, after finding him to be guilty of a charge of battery.

Bittinger pled guilty to the charge, which was filed by Jay M. Bittinger, also of Grantsville, following an October 26 incident in the parking lot of the Grantsville post office.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Donald L. Nine, 46, Oakland, after he was found to be guilty of the unlawful sale of a switchblade.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for John A. Gray, 61, Oakland, also for unlawful sale of a switchblade.

Gray pled guilty to the charge, which stemmed from the same incident at the Second Chance.

According to court documents, Gray sold the knife to Trooper Broadwater for $15.30.

In another case, Leo G. Coddington, 65, Grantsville, was found to be innocent of three charges of animal cruelty filed by Bernadine D. Friend, Friendsville.

REAL ESTATE TAX SHELTER
The largest investment most people make in their lives is the purchase of a home. If that home is sold, the profit realized could be the largest return on investment experienced in a lifetime. Even if you or your spouse is not yet 55 years old—when you are eligible for the one-time $125,000 tax exclusion on sale of your residence—you can defer all federal income taxes on the sale of your home.
When your principal residence is sold, tax on any profit you make on that sale can be deferred, i.e., not paid presently, if you invest, within a two-year period, at least as much money as you received from the sale of your old home in a new home. This may be done over and over again. There is no one-time use limitation on this tax savings device as there is with the $125,000 exclusion for persons over 55 years old.
Once you or your spouse is 55 years old, and you wish to sell your home, you can still use the $125,000 exclusion, completely avoiding part or all taxes on your previous home investment gains!

RAFFLE MONEY DONATED TO FLOOD VICTIMS — The Knights of Columbus Council 1771 of Oakland recently had a successful raffle to raise money for local flood victims. The raffle project was chaired by John Kurilla, and the top two ticket sellers were Edmond Palineau and Bobby Islen. Pictured is Grand Knight of Oakland Council 1771, Henry Gregory, presenting the profits from the raffle, an $1,800 check, to Sister Mary Ann (left) and Sister Joanna of the House of Hope. November, A Record-Breaking Month At Oakland Weather Station

by Bernice Kepple

The Oakland Weather Station, located at Flowers by Webers, has been an official Maryland weather station since 1904. Bea J. Crosco, the current weather observer at Webers, said that members of the Weber family were the original weather observers for the area, dating back to 1902. After taking the readings since 1970, Crosco became the official observer in 1983.

Her duties each day are to record the high temperature, the low temperature, the wind velocity, and the precipitation or snowfall. At the end of each month, she sends a copy of her report to Joseph Moyer, the Maryland State Climatologist at the Agronomy Department of the University of Maryland; the Army Corps of Engineers; and the Savage River Dam.

She is aided by a computerized system installed last summer which takes the readings directly from the equipment outside. She, in turn, takes her readings from the computer.

State Climatologist Moyer says that his office has solid records from the Oakland Station since January 1904, and that this past November broke several of those records. For one thing, it was the warmest November on record for the state of Maryland, with the previous record set in 1931.

It was the second warmest November in Oakland with the average monthly temperature 46.9 degrees. The record for Oakland still holds at 47.4 degrees set in November 1931. On November 18 of this year the Oakland Station recorded an all time high of 74 degrees.

The average monthly low was also higher than ever at 38.4 degrees, breaking the previous record set in 1931. The average monthly high temperature was the eighth highest, the 55.3 degrees not reaching the 58.7 degree record high.

The total monthly precipitation was the second highest, the record being set at 12.73 inches of precipitation in August 1911. November's precipitation reached 12.58 inches, only .15 of an inch away from the old record.

Only seven days in November had no precipitation, and the records show that 18 days that month showed precipitation equal to, or greater than, .10 of an inch. The previous record for that category had been 14 days in 1972.

Precipitation equal to, or greater than, .50 of an inch fell on seven days that month, breaking the 1940 record of five days. For four days in November more than one inch of precipitation was recorded, with the last record being two days in 1972.

Perhaps most amazing, was the lack of snow in November. For the first time since officials started keeping records at the Oakland Station in 1904, no snow fell in Garrett County. Back in 1931 a little less than an inch (.8) set the record broken in November.

The precipitation in the United States set national records in November, also. Record flows were set for streams in West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Montana.

Tom Ross, a national geological survey hydrologist, said, "We'd have to go back many years to find a November where so many streams set records. Most of the streams that had new November high flows have records that go back over 50 years and two have records that go back about 90 years."

This record precipitation caused severe flooding in the mountain areas of West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania during the month, leaving 51 dead and damage of $950 million or more, according to federal disaster authorities.

Nationally, the combined flow of the nation's three largest rivers - the Mississippi, St. Lawrence and Columbia - averaged 744 billion gallons per day, 75 percent above average for the month. These three rivers drain more than half of the conterminous 48 states.

At Washington, D.C., the Potomac River averaged 27.6 billion gallons a day, nine times normal, topping a record of 13.8 billion gallons per day set in November 1932.

In West Virginia, the Potomac doubled its prior record at Paw Paw, and the Greenbrier River at Alderson was measured at five times normal.

Grantsville Man Killed In Two-Vehicle Mishap

An early morning two-vehicle accident Friday claimed the life of a Grantsville man and seriously injured one other person.

Marlin J. Schrock, 25, died of injuries sustained in the collision of two pickup trucks on Route 669 at the Maryland–Pennsylvania state line.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland and listed in "stable" condition Friday night was Clyde E. Tressler, 53, Frostburg. He was flown to the hospital by the Medevac helicopter following the 7:30 a.m. mishap.

Both drivers were operating Ford F-150 pickup trucks.

Tfc. R. M. Hershberger investigated the mishap and stated that Schrock was southbound on Route 669 at the Maryland-Pennsylvania state line and crossed the center line directly into the path of the Tressler pickup. Hershberger said Tressler attempted to swerve to avoid the collision, but was unable to do so.

The crash scene was reconstructed by Tfc. M.M. Tichnell from the LaVale barrack.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Northern Rescue Squad, Grantsville firemen and Dr. James Feaster, medical examiner for Garrett County, to the scene.

Born in Meyersdale, Pa., January 20, 1960, Mr. Schrock was a son of Raymond Schrock and Mabel (Yoder) Schrock. His parents reside in Grantsville.

PSI Ordered For Oldaker

Judge Jack Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Donald Ray Oldaker, 31, Oakland, during Garrett County District Court proceedings last week after finding him guilty of theft.

Oldaker pled guilty to the charge, which was filed following a robbery at the Mtn. Lake Park Branch of the Garrett National Bank October 22.

A charge of robbery with a deadly weapon was not prosecuted by the court in exchange for his plea of guilty to the other charge.

Approximately $3,800 of the stolen money was recovered by the Sheriff's Department.

ORANGES AND CANDY ARE SYNONYMOUS WITH CHRISTMAS, at least in the minds of the little children who lined up on Second Street in Oakland Saturday to await their treasured treat and a visit with Santa Claus. The treat is sponsored by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and is given to the children with the assistance of Comapny C National Guard, Oakland. The chilly temperatures and blowing snow didn't hamper the children who needed to show Santa their Christmas lists.

Snowmobile Regs Noted By Police

Regulations for operating a snowmobile in Garrett County were reported this week by Sgt. H. W. Graham of the Maryland State Police.

In this county, snowmobiles are allowed to cross any highway, except controlled access highways, at a 90-degree angle. According to Sgt. Graham, the State Police and State Highway Administrators have agreed that U.S. Route 48 is the only road in Garrett County that cannot be crossed.

When crossing a highway, all rules of the road, including stopping and yielding the right-of-way, still apply.

Sgt. Graham said that when a snowmobile is crossing a road at a 90-degree angle, the vehicle does not have to be registered or covered by liability insurance. However, the operator must have a license to drive.

If the snowmobile is being operated on or adjacent to the traveled portion of the road, but within the public right-of-way, the vehicle must be licensed and insured. Sgt. Graham stated that the minimum fine for an unregistered vehicle is

Finzel Meeting With State Highway Dept. Shows "Cooperative Spirit"

Sodium chloride in the water system of the Finzel area has been an ongoing problem, and a meeting was held December 16 to discuss this issue. Attending this meeting were officials from the State Highway Administration, including Joseph Dorsey, assistant district engineer for maintenance.

Present at the meeting, along with 40 or 50 Finzel residents, were Senator John N. Bambacus and Delegate George C. Edwards.

Dorsey went over the history of the problem in the Finzel area since the state found that they were involved in sodium chloride contamination of surface springs and some wells in Finzel. He said that since that time, the SHA has been monitoring all springs and wells that the Garrett County Health Department advised had been affected, or that an individual had informed the SHA about.

High reading over 250 ppm total chloride had been found, and drinking water had been furnished by the SHA to those with high counts.

Dorsey said that as the results of the samples came back, a recommendation also came that two test wells be drilled to establish data to see if it would be feasible to drill wells for the residents with high chloride counts in their water.

Another recommendation was to pave the ditch areas along the existing roadways to eliminate the infiltration of salt during snow removal. Dorsey said that the department began the paving project, but didn't quite finish before the weather turned cold and the asphalt plants closed down for the winter. The plan is to finish the project when the plants reopen in the spring.

Paving has been completed along Route 546 from Route 40 to the radio station, about one-quarter of a mile from the top of the hill. "The work we did do was somewhat effective, and conditions improved in that area," said Dorsey.

Finzel residents asked a lot of questions at the meeting about when the SHA would be able to get back to work on the paving project, and how soon informa-

Small Crowd Attends Recent Hearing On ORVs

Early this month, approximately 35 to 40 persons attended a public hearing on proposed off-road vehicle regulations held at Garrett Community College. Attending from the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service were: Assistant Chief of Operations Paul Ruszin; Supervisor of Historical and Cultural Resources Ross Kimmel; Administrative Aide Lynda Watt; Warren Groves, forest manager at Savage River State Forest; and Joe Mechem, forest manager at Potomac-Garrett State Forest.

Delegate George Edwards, who also attended, opened by stating that the purpose of the hearing was to accept input on the proposals so that an attempt can be made to have a set of regulations adopted as early after January 1 as possible. He explained that he, as well as Senator John Bambacus and the Garrett County Commissioners, feels that state ground in the county should be more fully utilized. Saying that the state owns anywhere from

Shockey Outlines County's Winter Roads Policies

Paul R. Shockey, Garrett County Roads Administrator, outlined this week the policy on snow removal and recommended the proper tires to use on county roads.

Shockey reminded residents that the county does not use any chemicals, such as salt, on the county roads system. "Instead, we use two-thirds bottom ash and one-third sand," said the administrator. "Motorists need to realize that different factors beyond our control can lessen the effectiveness of those abrasives, such as high winds and traffic volumes."

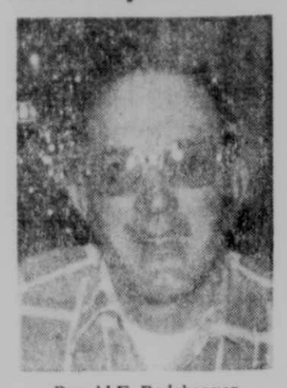
"Common sense and the proper snow tires for this area are of utmost importance when driving on snow-covered county roads," he added.

Shockey said the County Roads Department is not budgeted to provide the type of service given by the State Highway Administration.

"If motorists use chains, studded tires or approved winter tires during the times the Snow Emergency Plan is in effect for the county, they should have no problems on the county roads," he stated.

Regarding high wind conditions, Shockey said the county obviously has no control over Mother Nature. "Those are the times when it's even dangerous for our plows to be out, but we do our best to keep the roads as clear as possible," he said. "And as always, we're ready to help in emergency situations when people absolutely have to get out."

Shockey said when he gives his road condition reports, it is with the stipulation that motorists are using the proper snow tires and/or chains.



The administrator also stated that the Roads Department crews have the authority to have vehicles towed away at the owner's expense if they are, in any way, impairing the efforts of snow removal.

"If we work together and follow the rules, we can get through this winter with minimal problems," concluded Shockey.

Two Area Men Killed, Two Injured in Field Storage Tank Explosion

Donald E. Rodeheaver

Two Garrett County men were killed and two others were injured Friday in an explosion at the Accident Field Storage Facility of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation.

Richard Reckner, 31, Swanton, and Donald E. Rodeheaver Sr., 47, Accident, were both killed in the accident. Injured were Albert Charles Everd, Deer Park, and Richard Carlson, Accident, both of whom were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. Northern was met en route by the Southern Rescue Squad personnel.

According to Steven L. Horton, public relations director for Texas Eastern, the men killed in the explosion were a contract welder and a Texas Eastern employee. The injured were both employed by Texas Eastern.

The 1:04 p.m. explosion occurred when the workers were attempting to secure a toe plate to the bottom of a handrail at the top of the tank. The tank was used to store methanol. According to authorities, the 15-foot high tank was supposed to be empty at the time of the accident.

Horton said that methanol is injected into the gas stream flowing from the well to prevent freezing at the well head. He said that after the gas flows through the nozzle at the well head, it flows into the pipeline system. The methanol is comparable to anti-freeze. Water vapors are produced in the line and water and methanol must be removed.

The public relations director said the gas goes through a dehydrator, which takes the water and methanol out of gas and pumps it to the storage tanks.

There are six storage tanks at the Accident site. The explosion occurred Friday when the tank was ruptured due to the welding, tearing a hole in the top of the tank.

At the time of the accident, all four victims were at the top of the tank. Rodeheaver was welding and Reckner was assisting. Everd was holding a tarp between the welding operation and flame arrestor to keep sparks away from it. Carlson was waiting to hold the next piece of steel. When the tank ruptured and bulged, the explosion blew Rodeheaver and Reckner off the tank to the ground. Everd and Carlson were knocked against the handrail, sustaining leg injuries. They were able to climb down from the tank, though, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police.

Cpl. M.R. Mattingly said the investigation into the cause of the accident is continuing by the State Police Evidence Collection Unit and Garrett County Fire Marshall Guy Carola.

A GIFT THAT EASED THEIR MINDS and made Christmas a little brighter for some West Virginia farmers who have suffered most from the recent flood, took the form of round bales of hay and was given by Marlin Lawson of Friendsville. Lawson donated 78 round hay bales that totaled between 55 and 70 tons of hay. The sale price of mixed hay is currently averaging $70 per ton. This hay, which is extra hay Lawson normally makes to sell, was hauled to Romney on five tractor-trailer trucks. Four of those trucks belong to Lawson, who owns Lawson Trucking, and use of the other truck was donated by Mark Johnston. Lawson had intended to donate money to the flood victims but after reading in The Republican that hay was needed by farmers in that area, he decided he could help in that way. After talking with Steve Carcaterra, Hampshire County extension agent, who told him that hay was needed desperately before Christmas, Lawson and his helpers worked day and night in the cold and wind to load the hay. The convoy planned to begin the trip early Saturday morning, but because of the weather conditions and snow-covered roads, their start was delayed until about 10:30 a.m. Carcaterra was awaiting the trucks in Romney and said that the hay would be a blessing to farmers who had no feed for their stock over the holidays. "This donation is an effective way to say Merry Christmas and to offer hope for the new year to some who need it so badly," he said. Pictured above, from left to right, are Marlin Lawson, Gerald Thomas, DeForest Johnston, and Mark Johnston. Helpers who are not pictured included Gene Sines, who brought his forklift and helped with the loading; Tom Hinebaugh, Robert Bowser, Michael Lawson, and Harry Griffith.

GETTING READY FOR SANTA CLAUS — These Friendsville Elementary School art students did their part to bring the spirit of Christmas to Friendsville. The art classes at the school made the decorations and trimmed the town Christmas tree which is located at the corner of Maple Street and First Avenue. The tree itself was donated by Bob and Maxine Combs, and the arrangements were coordinated by council member Spencer Schlosnagle. Santa's little elves pictured above decorating the tree are, left to right, Sara Stanton, Tonja Friend, Stacey Anderson, Jennifer Vitez, and Angela Sessa. Helpers who are not pictured are Shawn Sessa, Benjy Vitez, and Chad Anderson.

Mtn. Lake Park Man Sentenced To One Year

A young Mtn. Lake Park man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail for distribution of marijuana by Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer last week.

Philip Ray Coddington, 19, was found to be guilty of the charge November 14, and a presentence investigation was ordered.

The judge granted credit for time already served in jail.

Coddington was also guilty of a second distribution charge. For that charge, he was sentenced to one year in jail, consecutive with the first sentence. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing him on 12 months supervised probation plus parole time.

According to court documents, the charges were made following two separate incidents at the Par-Matt Bowling Alley, Mtn. Lake Park.

In the first incident, which occurred February 27, Coddington sold two marijuana cigarettes to Eldred R. Durst, investigator for the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office.

On March 6, Coddington sold a plastic bag containing marijuana to Sgt. C.H. Hinnant of the Maryland State Police.

Coddington was represented by Michael Morrissette, an Oakland attorney.

Two counts of possession of marijuana and a common nuisance charge were not prosecuted by the court.

In another court case, a presentence investigation was ordered for Galen E. Beckman, Jr., 26, Mtn. Lake Park, after he was found to be guilty of possession and distribution of marijuana.

Beckman's bail was revoked, and he was committed to the Sheriff's Department pending sentencing.

The charges stemmed from March 6 and March 8 incidents in the Deer Park, Mtn. Lake Park areas.

According to court documents, Beckman sold marijuana to Sgt. C.H. Hinnant of the Maryland State Police.

Beckman was represented by John Toston, public defender.

The judge also ordered a presentence investigation for Michael L. Bittinger, 29, Grantsville, after finding him guilty of possession of marijuana and two counts of distribution of marijuana.

According to reports filed by the court, the charges stemmed from separate incidents occurring between April 24 and June 7 near Swanton.

The judge continued Bittinger's bail.

Bittinger's attorney was James F. Braskey.

Goldstein Says New Tax Form Is Simplified

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says a record 1,936,387 state income tax packets are on their way, and when it arrives, taxpayers will notice some important differences.

"We've been working hard to improve our forms and instructions in the past year," Goldstein said. "The changes we've made should make it easier for you to complete your Maryland income tax return."

The comptroller noted that one law change will mean that more taxpayers will be able to use the Maryland short form. "Maryland's tax tables have been increased to $50,000, the same as the federal tax tables, which will make more people eligible to go directly to the tables to find the tax. Because of the higher limit on the tax tables, more taxpayers will also be eligible to use the short form, providing they meet the requirements listed on the front of that form," he said.

Maryland's long form has been expanded to include more lines on which to transfer items of income from the federal return, eliminating some confusion on the part of individuals seeking to report taxable unemployment compensation or other items.

"Another change which should eliminate some confusion affects everyone who itemizes deductions on their Maryland income tax return," the comptroller said. "All itemizers will complete Maryland form 502A, which is included in the tax packet, and send it in along with their long form. This parallels the procedure for itemizing on federal returns."

The 1985 Maryland tax packet also contains more worksheets to make calculations easier and cut errors.

The 10,218 mailbags of state tax packets were labelled and pre-sorted right down to local postal carrier routes by state income tax employees, saving taxpayers nearly $1.25 million in postage costs. The giant mailing operation takes four days to complete, beginning December 26.

All 15 state income tax offices offer free taxpayer assistance. Locations, telephone numbers and extra hours of assistance are all listed in the packet.

The Christmas card sending record, it is believed is held by Werner Erhard of California, who, in 1975, sent 62,824.

Two Juveniles Convicted Of B And E Theft

Two male youths were found to be delinquent during juvenile court cases heard December 18.

The first youth, a 15-year-old male from the Baltimore City Area, was convicted of breaking and entering a storage shed near Accident November 9.

According to court documents, the youth took two three-wheelers worth a total of $3,200.

The juvenile was found to be guilty of breaking, entering, and stealing, and theft over $300.

The youth was placed on supervised probation with the department of juvenile services with the condition that he will continue counseling and make restitution.

The second youth was a 16-year old who had escaped from the Meadow Mountain Youth Camp July 27.

He was found to be guilty of willful and malicious destruction of property and breaking, entering and stealing.

According to court documents, the youth destroyed a piece of equipment worth $1,085 belonging to Allegheny Welding & Machine, Inc. He also removed two butcher knives, a first aid kit, and a pair of pliers from the building.

The juvenile was committed to the secretary of health and mental hygiene for placement back into the Meadow Mountain Youth Camp with restitution to be made.

THEY HELPED TO MAKE THE SEASON BRIGHT for needy families in the Garrett County and Preston County areas. Pictured above is Santa Claus and his elves from WXIE FM radio and The Republican Newspaper who co-sponsored a food drive for the House of Hope and a gift gathering for Lou Stouffer, who has played Santa to many needy children and their families every Christmas for over 12 years. Approximately $1,500 in food and monetary donations were given to the House of Hope during the four-hour drive on Saturday. Santa collected nearly $100 and two pickup loads of toys that day. Although the unemployment rate in Garrett County is among the lowest in the state, its residents are notorious for giving the most when the chips are down. Thousands of new, wrapped toys and a significant amount of money was donated by school children through the sponsorship of the Garrett County Board of Education to flood victims recently, and Clark Sharpless, coordinator, called The Republican late last week to say that several hundred of those toys would be donated to Santa Stouffer, who has also been active in aiding flood victims. Shown above, first row, left to right, are Chuck Nolan, food drive coordinator; Pam Ashby, coordinator for the gift gathering and reporter from The Republican who introduced Garrett County to Santa Stouffer in a feature article last year; Lou "Santa" Stouffer; Lola Stouffer, Shorty Boyce, food drive helper from the VFW; Cathy Helbig, coordinator for the gift gathering and Sharon Fulk, helper for the gift gathering. Shown second row, left to right, are Paul McCloud, news director at WXIE and coordinator for the food drive; Terry King, station manager at WXIE and coordinator for the food drive; John Smith, food drive helper; and James Pysell, food drive helper.

A local man was found to be guilty of a fourth degree sex offense during Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Henry L. Armstrong, Jr., 20, was sentenced to one year in the Department of Corrections, which was then suspended. He was then placed on two years supervised probation.

Armstrong will not be allowed in the company of the juvenile without adult supervision until October 13, 1986.

Armstrong's attorney was Henry R. Adams.

Larry C. DeBerry Sr., 32, Kingwood, W.Va., was sentenced for charges of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance and a handgun violation after a pre-sentence investigation report was read.

CHRISTMAS WAS MADE MERRIER for scores of area families because of the efforts of the students at Northern Middle School. The student council of the school conducted a week-long gift-gathering drive to help make sure that the families affected by November's flooding still had a nice Christmas. A total of 530 wrapped packages, plus $712.82 in cash, was the result of the effort. In the photo, left to right, are student council officers: Heather Martin, secretary; Dreama Teets, president; Amy Foley, treasurer; and Dixie Browning, vice president.

House Of Hope No Longer Taking Used Clothing

The House of Hope is no longer in the used clothing business, according to Sister Mary Ann Mazza.

The House of Hope director said they are not equipped to handle clothing and noted that, even though a sign has been posted at the front door at the House of Hope which reads, "No Clothing", some people still insist on dropping off old clothing there. To make matters worse, some of the clothing is in need of repair and is dirty.

Sister Mazza suggested that people having good, clean, used clothing could donate it to the Community Service Organization, sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The drop-off point for such clothing is at Linens and Blends, located on Alder Street in Oakland. The organization has no use for torn or dirty clothing.

Taken For Granted . . .

While our children were nestled all snug in their beds on Christmas Eve, and we parents had just settled down for a long winter's nap, those of us who live along local roadways could hear the sound of snowplows passing by.

Once again our thoughts were directed to the men who were operating those vehicles on this most special night of the year, a time when everyone should be able to be at home with their families. Not only are these extra efforts often taken for granted but the abuse that the roads departments receive, especially during the winter months, is never-ending. While at times the complaints may be justified, we believe the great majority are not.

In a story on the front page of this issue, local residents are reminded by Paul Shockey, administrator of the Garrett County Roads Department, of the county's policy on snow removal. For example, car-eating chemicals, such as salt, are never used on county roads, which may come as a surprise to some people.

Regardless of what methods are used by the snow removal crews, the best defense against snow-related mishaps on our roadways is common sense and alertness by all drivers. There are some who believe that, unless a road is made totally bare by the road crews, then they are not doing their job. There is no regard given to temperature, or wind speed, or the other natural factors that are involved.

If a driver rounds a turn and goes into a skid, the roads department is blamed immediately for not removing that patch of ice. The driver refuses to admit that his car skidded simply because he was driving at a speed too great for the condition of the roads, or because they are depending on "all-weather radials" to get them through, or because they are trying to get just one more year out of their already worn out winter treads, or because they weren't paying attention to the road, or because they are not experienced drivers in winter conditions.

We believe that these men do a fantasic job with snow removal and we appreciate the fact that they are willing to be out doing their jobs in weather and at times when the rest of us can be at home. But these guys can't do it all and no snow removal effort can ever be perfect or complete. They need some understanding, patience, cooperation, good sense, and carefulness on the part of everyone to minimize accidents and problems.

We have a whole lot of winter left. But this is Garrett County and we know what our winters are like here. Let's work together and make the rest of this winter, and all of the new year, as safe and as accident-free as possible.

Reminder: Don't forget to drive home the friend who consumes too much holiday cheer at the party. It's your chance to save some lives.

Christmas At Parsons

by Mary I. Love

The holidays — Christmas and New Year's — are traditionally supposed to be a time of joy and pleasure. They are also supposed to be a time for reviewing the past and making plans and resolutions for the future. But sometimes reviewing the past is no joy, and looking to the future seems to promise nothing good.

These are not original observations. Charles Dickens gave them to Scrooge nearly 150 years ago, and Scrooge's snarled "Christmas — Bah! Humbug!" is quoted annually by tired shoppers and clumsy gift-wrappers.

This came to mind last week when I had occasion to go to Parsons, W.Va. In the seven or eight weeks since the flood a lot has been done in Parsons. A fast-food store and a service station have been re-opened, and the A&P will re-open soon. End-walls have been re-built, so the stores no longer look like drive-through car washes, although they may not be back in business yet. The streets are no longer channels of mud. Some of the houses have been made livable again and are occupied, although there are many marked with the code numbers meaning they will be demolished. In short, the structural town of Parsons is on the way to recovery.

How about the people, this Christmas season?

I was fortunate enough to meet some who help make up the town and the community, for I spent a couple of hours registering those who were coming to the church basement where Community Action has a depot for food, clothing, bedding, and household supplies. (Another part of the church basement is occupied by T.I.R.E., the Tucker Interfaith Recovery Effort, which supplies furniture and large appliances.)

In about five hours, close to 80 people registered for food, each person representing a family, some of the families including ten people.

People registering sometimes had problems giving their addresses. They would start and address automatically, then stop. One woman gave a street name, stopped, and said, "That's gone. Just put 'General Delivery'." Others hesitated or stumbled, a clue to one more long-time pattern of behavior that was broken.

The large room where we were was full of stacks and racks of clothing of all kinds, and of tables covered with canned goods, bakery items, and staples. Bags and boxes of potatoes and apples were on the floor. Boxes of clothing not yet unpacked were stacked five feet high, and tractor trailers from Bluefield, Martinsburg, and Bridgeport were unloading more clothing, stoves, and refigerators.

While we were there, the two hottest items were detergents and Christmas decorations.

Detergents are so much in demand they are rationed. West Virginia mud may not be as obvious as it was a month ago, but it is still a part of life and it has remarkable clinging power. This day was so cold that I was wearing quilted nylon snow pants. Somehow, they got muddy, and it took two washing cycles to clean them.

As for Christmas decorations, to have a tree for the kids, a wreath on the door, or lights in the window, was important. Detergents might speak to the past year, but Christmas speaks to the future, and Parsons is looking to that future.

Note: At the moment, Parsons needs people to help as much as, or maybe more, than it needs things: people to unpack, sort, and distribute. If you're interested, call the Rev. Eldon Shingleton, St. John's United Methodist Church, (304) 478-2620.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recently I wrote a letter to the county commissioners in regard to the money for the local rescue squads from the proposed bill to be introduced in the legislature in January. I am in favor of this bill, with the exceptions I will mention in this letter. I am a 48-year service volunteer fireman and still active, so I know how the fire tax has helped us.

The money which is county money should be paid to all the county, not just parts of the county. In our area, Tri-Towns Rescue Squad serves the Westernport Road, Mill Run, and Butcher Run into Garrett County out of Barton, Savage River area, Crabtree Run, part of Spring Lick, Dry Run, Savage River State Park, and has been up Savage River as far as Merrill's Bridge with our fire company (Bloomington), Chesnut Grove, Route 135 to Swanton Road, and Walnut Bottom area. This is our fire area and they are called by Allegany County Civil Defense to travel with our fire company on car wrecks, structure fires, and other emergencies. We also work mutual aid with them in this area, as we have in our fire company eight EMTs, one CRT, and 18 certified in CPR.

The Kitzmiller, Shallmar, and Vindex areas are covered by Elk District Rescue Squad, while Lonaconing Rescue Squad covers Garrett County areas near them, such as the boys camp. Frostburg Rescue Squad also comes into Garrett County.

I suggested to the commissioners that the calls into Garrett County from these other squads be submitted annually, along with the calls by Southern and Northern Garrett County rescue squads. The money should then be distributed to each of these squads, based upon number of calls made in Garrett County. If this money cannot be legally distributed to squads located outside the county, then maybe it could be paid to Garrett County service organizations which could then turn it over to the out-of-county squads.

Sincerely,
Charles Pattison
Bloomington

To the Editor:

The county commissioners and Maryland DNR have got to realize that each is dependent on the other. If it were not for the state-owned land here, Garrett County would be nothing; likewise the state depends on the sale of hunting licenses and stamps to operate. The only losers at this time are sportsmen and landowners. This is evidenced by the recent hearings on Deep Creek Lake Regs. and off-road vehicles and the coming 1986-87 regulations on trapping and hunting in Maryland. This meeting, normally held in Cumberland, has been moved to Hagerstown.

For people not familiar with the DNR, there are two groups of employees in Annapolis. They are the career professional and the career political employee. Dr. Torrey Brown belongs to the latter.

Dr. Brown is a physician from the streets of Baltimore. He left medicine to become a delegate in the House of Representatives in Annapolis. Soon after his election defeat, Gov. Hughes appointed him secretary of the DNR. His pet project now is the clean-up of the bay at a cost of several billion dollars. I have never heard or read of any opposition from him concerning the coal slurry pipeline starting in western Maryland and terminating at the bay.

The DNR is big business at the expense of sportsmen and landowners. A case in point is the amount of money paid the DNR for hunting on my property this year. These hunters paid a total of $227 for their licenses and required stamps, with one hunter paying $31.50. I received nothing.

I don't feel that I should own the wildlife, but if the wildlife belongs to the state and I'm to provide shelter for them, I'd like some help with the rent. If the state prescribes the wildlife menu from my forest kitchen, some help with the "dishes" would be nice.

The DNR proposes an increase of 475,000 man hours for hunting 10 species of forest game. This increase comes when there is a loss of habitat and wildlife. Is this sound conservation or big business?

Sincerely,
C.W. Newhall Jr.

Our Turn

That's One On You
by Pam Ashby

With the excitement of the Christ child's birth and all the wonderful sights and smells of Christmas, comes the family gathering - that glorious time of hugging, kissing, eating too much, exchanging gifts and saying things that give me a column.

Along with all the love in my huge family is laughter which serves to make the season truly merry. We all believe that humor is essential to a good life and I believe that to forgive is divine. Okay, guys?

Good ole' mom, who's usually the straight one of the bunch, stood up during dinner and said solemnly, "I have an announcement to make. This is the last Christmas dinner I'll be making . . . (a hush falls over the table) . . . My roaster has a hole in it."

Good one, mom. You got us again.

The folks decided to give the grandchildren money this year in lieu of buying them something they wouldn't like anyway. Brother Brad, upon opening up his little girl's envelope, said, "Look honey, gas money."

Not bad, Brad, but not as good as listening to the ongoing feud between brother Ed and brother Paul.

A discussion on the evils of television and the benefits of reading was ensued by several family members. Paul noted that he felt reading wasn't that important because he already had so much knowledge, to which Ed reported, "Yes, Paul is already educated beyond his intelligence."

By this time, Dad was opening the gifts from his children. When he came to Ed's large gift box, Paul stated, "Sure, Ed. Go ahead. Make my gift look smaller."

"It's pretty hard to make a nickel look any smaller, Paul," quipped Ed.

Then it was time for mom to open her presents. She has always been one of those people who saves wrapping paper, so it takes her a half an hour to open one present. After much cajoling about her wise habit, she finally threw caution to the wind and did the unthinkable. She ripped the paper off a large package. Several famiy members had to be revived from the shock.

One rather rotund sibling curled up in front of the roaring cardboard fire was asked if she was cold. "No, I . . . uh . . . she replied. I'm trying to render down."

My, it was fun, though. The love was there. I've said it before and I'll say it again. "Wasn't this just the best Christmas ever."?

Something For Teens

Leisure Time—
The Garrett County Teen Center
by Dave Terlizzi

Editor's Note: The following is a reprint of an article from "The Stethescoop", a monthly newspaper put out monthly for and by the staff and employees of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Dave Terlizzi is the editor.

A subject near and dear to my heart is the Garrett County Teen Center — a place for teens between the ages of 13 and 19 who don't use drugs or drink alcohol and like to dance, enjoy other teens and just have fun. The center is now located at the Oakland fire hall.

The Teen Center was founded by teenagers for teenagers as a place to go in Garrett County that would be drug-free and alcohol-free. The center is a non-profit organization that is operated by a director "package" consisting of myself and my wife, Darlene, along with a teen committee representing Northern, Southern and East Preston High Schools. We also have "feelers" in Union and Elk Garden High Schools.

There is a $2.50 per person or $4.50 per couple admission fee to pay for operational expenses. Activities include: dances, D.J.'s, musical videos, bands, special theme dances, contests, prizes, socializing and good, old-fashioned fun.

These activities are normally held twice a month at the Oakland fire hall from 8 p.m. to midnight. During Fair Week, Autumn Glory and other holidays, activities are held once a month.

Teens come and bring friends, meet friends or just be friends. Local newspapers and radio stations announce the dates of the Teen Center events. The high schools also make announcements and promote the activities with posters. Some local merchants also place posters in their establishments and donate prizes.

Parents, businesses and the community as a whole have all been supportive of the Teen Center which has been in existence since Thanksgiving of 1984.

We have just purchased some D.J. equipment and are hoping to expand our musical videos. We are in the process of making our own "homegrown" video productions. This is being accomplished by some dedicated people who share our interest in teenagers. They volunteer their time, talent and money to make the Teen Center happen.

What do the teens have to say about the center? Following are some of their comments:

"The Teen Center is a nice place to go where there are no drugs or alcohol."

"You can meet new people."

"You can watch great music videos and cartoons."

"It keeps teenagers out of trouble."

One teenager said he was once involved in a lot of trouble, but since the Teen Center has been here, he has found new meaning for the word fun and it keeps him straight.

"You can meet neat guys and girls."

"The wall between Northern and Southern rivalry seems to be dropped at the Teen Center and everybody justs gets together and has fun."

"It's really a fun place and parents don't mind because they know we won't get in trouble"

"It's the best thing in Garrett County that teenagers can go to. You can go and be yourself without having your parents on your back."

"It's someplace to go where you can act wild and crazy without feeling embarrassed."

"The Teen Center is 'Our Place' and we don't want to loose it. It's the only thing in Garrett County that is specifically for teenagers."

Our reward from this is a much richer one than any money Darlene and I could ever get paid. These kids know we love them.

Hospital Employees Honored

EMPLOYEES OF THE MONTH at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for November and December were named recently by the hospital's Employee Committee. Carrie Ahern, a 17-year employee in the Dietary Department, received the honor for November. She is pictured above, right, with Wendy Wakefield, director of the department. The award for December was presented to Doris Genco, admissions clerk, pictured below.

The November and December Employees of the Month at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were recently named.

Carrie Ahern, a 17-year employee in the Dietary Department, received the honor for November, while Doris Genco, admissions clerk, was named for December.

Mrs. Ahern is a cook and represents the Dietary Department on the hospital's Employee Committee. She resides in Rosedale and is the mother of two sons and three daughters. She also has three grandchildren.

Her outside interests include gardening and attending music concerts.

"The hospital is fortunate to have Carrie aboard," stated Wendy Wakefield, director of dietetics, "and our department is doubly fortunate to have her with us."

"It was nice to be chosen," Mrs. Ahern said. "The hospital and its staff are like my second home and family."

Mrs. Genco, a graduate of William Penn High School, Wilmington, Del., has been employed at the hospital since 1976.

A native of McHenry, she is married to Vincent Genco and is the mother of four children, two stepchildren, and grandmother of one. Her hobbies include swimming, sailing, and reading.

Brad Frazee, admitting officer, said he chose Mrs. Genco because of "her excellent quality of work, her high standards of punctuality, and willingness to always help in any way she can." He said she "creates a good working relationship with her fellow employees."

Mrs. Genco said she felt "very honored" to be chosen employee of the Month and noted her appreciation to those who were responsible for her selection.

"I hope everyone appreciates the good working conditions and benefits at the hospital and the unity shared as a working family," she said.

Bambacus Wants Subdivisions Paid For State Lands

Sen. John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett) announced last week that he has introduced legislation to require the state to make payment in lieu of taxes to subdivisions in which the state acquires land which is removed from the tax rolls.

"Land use policy in the State of Maryland seeks to balance two opposing yet powerful interests: economic development and environmental preservation," Bambacus commented. "However, we must face the reality that land taken out of production, or kept from being developed at all, contributes to the strain on already dimninished tax revenues. Sadly, the burden is placed on the rural, non-metropolitan taxpayer who increasingly is asked to pick up the slack.

"Allegany and Garrett Counties have some of Maryland's best forest and wilderness resources. In a state that is being urbanized at a rapid rate, we want to keep our forests intact - with their streams, wildlife and extraordinary beauty. But when such a high percentage of our land surface is lost to the tax rolls (over 55,000 acres in Allegany County and about 70,000 in Garrett County), it's time for the state to pay its fair share, the senator stated.

Eastern Shore senator, Frederick C. Malkus Jr., is joining Sen. Bambacus in sponsoring the proposal. Malkus said development is severely restricted in the Eastern Shore counties he represents, to preserve the unique marshes and tidal wetlands in the Chesapeake Bay region.

"If people from other parts of the state want to enjoy our natural resources, as they do, perhaps they should share in paying the true costs of maintaining them," Bambacus concluded.

Army Corps Of Engineers Plan Flood Wall Study

The Army Corps of Engineers will be taking a look at the damaged flood control walls in the towns of Kitzmiller and Lonaconing, according to Sen. John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany, Garrett).

Sen. Bambacus has been working closely with U.S. Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. since the November 5 flooding in the Potomac River basin and the George's Creek valley. In his most recent conversation with Mathias' Baltimore office, Bambacus learned that a team from the Corps would be in the affected areas within the next two or three weeks.

Bambacus indicated that he was gratified to see all levels of government working together to address local problems. "From day one of the flood emergency in November, when I visited the affected areas, it was clear to me that close cooperation would be essential to put our communities back to normal," he stated.

Liquor Control Board Reprimands Local Business

The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County (Liquor Control Board) met December 13, and according to Administrative Officer Joseph M. Wolf, the board reprimanded the co-owners of Billy Bob's Tavern in Grantsville, William C. Davis of Frostburg and Robert A. Yutzy of Springs, Pa. Davis and Yutzy had been found guilty by Judge Jack Turney in Garrett County District Court last October of permitting a gaming table to be kept at their establishment.

The judge had fined both men $250, given them suspended sentences, and placed them on supervised probation. The reprimand given the men by the Liquor Control Board stated that the board can refuse to reissue their liquor license if another offense is committed.

In other business, the board approved several applications for licenses. A Class A Offsale Beer License to sell alcoholic beverages in Garrett County was approved for applicants Ronald M. Pase and Richard L. Durst for BJ's in Swanton. A Class D beer, wine, and liquor license was granted to Patricia G. Zumpano for Zump's in McHenry.

Midlake Properties, Inc. represented by William J. Vandemark, president; Carol L. Vandemark, vice president; and William G. Weissgerber, vice president, were given a Class D beer, wine, and liquor license for Wynlyn's in McHenry. Another Class D beer, wine and liquor license was approved for Carolyn M. Murray at the Lazy Susan in Accident, and a Class D and Draft Beer license was approved for The Mayhew Inn on Route 219, represented by Richard Snyder, David E. Cogan, and Deborah C. Sowers-Vescovi.

Wolf reported that the quarterly total for the quarter ending September 30 was $37,000.

THE TOP MONEY-MAKERS in Southern Middle School's recent Run for the Flood Victims were presented awards last week for their efforts. Students gathered pledges from family and friends and then completed a 20-minute run in the physical education classes. A total of $3,458.79 was pledged, all of which will be donated to the victims of the area flooding which occurred last month. In the photo, left to right, front row, are Jenine Shank, who led the school with $200 in pledges; Tammy Martin, $170; Candy Moreland, $132; Brian White, $120; Sabrena Stemple, $113; and Robert McCrobie, $101. In the second row, same order, are Joy Uphold, $100; Nick Pope, $100; Eric Germain, $65; Chase Burnett, $63; Robert Harvey, $57; and Dusty Kovach, $51. In the third row, same order, are Richard Pollard, $49; Rebecca Finch, $47; Lori Livengood, $44; and Melvin Spiker, $43. The prizes were donated by various local businesses. The winning class was the sixth period, composed of sixth and seventh grade students, which brought in $639.67. Coordinating teachers, all from the SMS physical education department, were Jane Metz, Lynn Fraley, Gary Newcomb, and Paula Briggs.

Energy Tips

by Patricia Driscoll Easterday
Extension Agent for Community Resource Development
For Allegany and Garrett Counties

"Slash your fuel bills by using wood to supply your heat." Many people have heard this claim before, and often we wonder if it is true. For many people it works, but for others it is an illusion. They purchase a new woodstove, put in a supply of firewood and then watch in bewilderment as their heating costs rise.

The Cooperative Extension Service now has a computer program available to help consumers determine if it is financially advantageous to use a wood-burning stove to replace part or all of an existing heating system.

If you would like to have a cost analysis worked out for you for a wood-burning system you are considering to purchase, or if you are considering to expand your current woodburner to supply all of your home's fuel, supply the information below. You may make an appointment to bring the information into the Extension Serviced and run it on the computer, or you may send the information in, and we will run it for you.

1. Number of fuel units used for heat last year (ex. 100 kwh, 95 ccf, 65 gallons).
2. Type of heat (ex. electricity, natural gas, etc.)
3. Total cost of last year's fuel.
4. Efficiency of your present heating system. (If you don't know your efficiency, just give the age and type of system, and whether or not it is a converted system).
5. Efficiency of the woodburning system to be installed.
6. Cost of buying and installing a woodburning system.
7. Percentage of your present heater's output to be supplied by the new woodburner.
8. Cost you would pay for a cord of wood.
9. Type of wood to be burned (hardwood, softwood or a mixture).

For more information about the cost-benefit of installing woodstoves, call the Cooperative Extension Service, 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, at 724-3320 or at 202 Third Street, Oakland.

Two Killed

According to Mattingly, the accident did not appear to be suspicious in nature. He said it appears that as the welding was being done, a hole was burned in the tank causing the vapors in the tank to explode.

Along with the rescue squads, Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched Accident and Grantsville firemen to the scene. Also on the scene were the Maryland State Police, the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, Carola and Garrett County medical examiner Dr. James H. Feaster.

Born Novembr 20, 1954, Mr. Reckner was a son of Richard H. Reckner Sr. and Helen (Wright) Reckner.

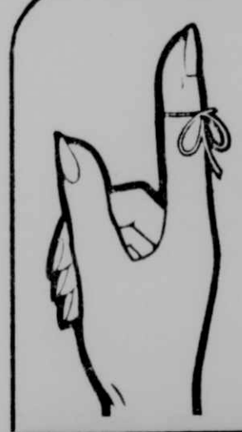
In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Karen (Barnard) Reckner; two brothers, Ronald Reckner, Bittinger, and Randall E. Reckner, Swanton; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Wright, Swanton.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home where a service was conducted Tuesday with the Rev. Father John A. Grant officiating. Following the services, the body was cremated.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Deer Park or Accident volunteer fire departments.

Born July 24, 1938, in Confluence, Pa., Mr. Rodeheaver was the son of Mason Rodeheaver and Geraldine (Wright) Rodeheaver, Sang Run.

He was a heavy equipment operator for the HMH Corporation, Oakland, and a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren and the Accident Volunteer fire department.



Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, Mildred (Upole) Rodeheaver; three sons, Donald E. Rodeheaver Jr., McHenry; Timothy L. Rodeheaver, Swallow Falls; Sgt. Gary W. Rodeheaver, stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army; one daughter, Mrs. Sue Ellen DeWitt, Oakland; two stepsons; Douglas Ward, Ohio; David Ward, Accident; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Lisa Kulp, Oakland; three brothers; a twin, Ronald Rodeheaver, Dwaine Rodeheaver, both of McHenry; Gerald Rodeheaver, Friendsville; four granddaughters and two step-granddaughters.

Friends were received at the Newman Funeral Home in Accident. A service was conducted at the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren Tuesday with the Rev. Donald Matthews officiating. Interment was at the Oak Grove Cemetery.

Consumer Buying Boosts Sales Tax

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says that while parking lots and cash registers have been filling up in December, thanks to holiday shoppers, the consumer related categories of sales tax collections began to grow earlier in the fall.

"According to our sales and use tax figures for November, 1985, which reflect October retail activity, both the general merchandise and apparel categories of collections posted important increases," Goldstein said.

The general merchandise category produced $17.6 million during November, 1985, up 7.9% over the same month a year ago, while apparel category increased 12.7%, to $5.3 million.

"Of course, this is only part of the picture," Goldstein said, "but these categories directly reflect much of the consumer-shopper activity. Total sales and use tax revenue received during November, 1985, amounted to $96,562,544, an 8.3% increase over the $89,127,916 collected during November, 1984."

For the first four months of fiscal year 1986, retail sales and use tax collections totaled $386,339,585, up 8.3% over the $356,561,128 received during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

For the four month period, taxable food and beverage sales provided the largest amount of sales tax revenue, $79.5 million, while the general merchandise category provided $68.7 million. The building and contractors category produced the third largest amount of sales tax revenue, $62.9 million.

Traffic Mishaps Claim Ten Lives

Law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Maryland reported 10 motor vehicle traffic fatalities occurred during the week ending December 22. Of these fatalities, eight were drivers and two were pedestrians. Preliminary investigation of these accidents revealed that speed was a contributing factor in two deaths, alcohol in two and driver error in eight.

Traffic fatalities in Maryland through December 22 totalled 712, compared to 633 during the same period last year.

The November Award in the Social Studies category was received by Lorie Damon, a senior. She is the daughter of Andy and Sue Damon, Oakland. She is the vice president of GAA, and a member of the National Honor Society, Who's Who and the Society of Distinguished American High School Students. This year she is a Maryland Distinguished Scholar. She is the president of Youth Fellowship in her church. She plans to attend a four-year liberal arts college and major in mathmatics and German. She hopes to pursue a career in international business.

ORV Hearing

72,000 to 80,000 acres, he went on to say that increasing off-road vehicle trails in the county has been looked at for several years and would take some of the pressure off of private property. "We get people coming in from out of the area who get onto private property, and if we had more designated trails, they could stay on those trails on state land," he said.

Several local residents spoke up against the proposed off-road vehicle trails' proximity to the established hiking trails. Among them was Dr. Alta Schrock, an area biologist and conservationist,who said, (the land) "is a trust and only we can maintain this trust for the next generations. People come from the megalopolis to enjoy the peace and quiet of our area. They are the quiet in the land. They do not speak loudly about it, but we owe them, as taxpayers, the same that we owe the people with the three-wheelers and the four-wheelers. We must speak for all the interests in the county."

Also present and concurring with Dr. Schrock were: Todd Hutton, chairman of the Western Maryland Sierra Club's Potomac Chapter; Mark Weatherholt, president of the Allegany County Bird Club; county residents Margaret Harless, Helga Carruthers, Jim Ross, Jeff Griffith, and Cumberland attorney Donald Goldblume. Among their objections were the increased noise levels that would result from ORV trails parallelling or using the same hiking trails, and that the vehicles would not stay where they should (on state trails).

Speaking in favor of additional ORV trails were Charles Jolley from Monkton; local residents Paul Pratt, Bill Sisler, Karen Spiker; and Dan Radcliffe, representing the Cumberland snowmobile club, who all said that they were glad to see the state put some real effort forth to develop forest land so that a bigger segment of people could use it, and that ORV trails would utilize a lot of this property. In answer to the problem of ORVs on private property, Sisler said, "One of the biggest problems with getting the people out of the areas that's causing all the conflict is that there's not adquate maps, well marked maps, loading and unloading ramps, so that people can actually go there, unload, and use the facilities that's already there. If we could get these snowmobiles, four-wheelers, and three-wheelers out of the residential areas and back into the woodlands where these trails go, we could eliminate most of the complaints about them in our area."

Other concerns discussed at the hearing were unregistered off-road vehicles, insurance, and the safety factor of highway crossings.

The record was left open for public comment until December 16, and at that time Supervisor Kimmel reported that a large amount of letters had been submitted to the department. Among the approximate 250 letters received were 149 form-letters signed by members of the Snowdrifters Snowmobile Club in favor of additional trails, and 65 or so letters from people with environmental interests who were against increased ORV use of state forests.

All testaments from the hearing and the letters will be studied by Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Chief of Operations Dave Hathway, who will make a final decision on the regulations proposed, or on changing the proposals and holding another public hearing, in the near future.

the book mark

by Mark Fulk

During this holiday season, we can imagine the way this time of year was spent in the country, with the aromas of baked goods floating in from the kitchen, and families sitting about a fire, singing carols, and admiring a tree decorated with large, homemade ornaments. Such times are captured with warmth and humor in Lake Wobegon Days by Garrison Keillor. In this panoramic novel is a portrait of smalltown life in the midwest. Based on the radio broadcasts of "A Prairie Home Companion," this is a book that is true Americana; the way it was and should be in smalltown America. A very good book to curl up with any night.

The book, Warrick by Marilyn Harris, did not live up to what is expected after the tremendous Eden series. The story is filled with too many shockers. In the story, Tyburn Warrick is dying. As his family and friends gather around (rather like vultures), secrets long-buried are revised. On the good side, the story did contain some touching scenes with sincere family members (mainly his daughter and live-in lover). The story, overall, is a disappointment, but still has some slight merit.

Next time, I will be reviewing the grand Windhaven series by Marie De Jourlet. Happy Holidays!

Puzzuoli Speaks Out . . .

by Dr. David Puzzuoli
Interim President
Garrett Community College

Garrett Community College counts among its student body a significant number of transfer students. For the fall, 1985 semester there are 188 transfer students within a total college enrollment of 553. These students are so designated because at some point in time they expect to attend a four-year college or university to earn a Bachelor's degree, or enroll at another community college to complete a specialized program of study not offerred at GCC.

The particular needs of transfer students are served through GCC's transfer office staffed by Dr. George Dailey, the college's transfer coordinator. Working with both public and private institutions of higher learning in Maryland and other states, the transfer coordinator gathers appropriate information on curriculum that is then used by the college's faculty advisors to counsel transfer students in proper course choices during registration.

The essence of transfer advising is to plan a course of study so that a student will have all courses taken at GCC transferred into an academic program at another school without loss of credit.

The term "articulation" is often used with reference to transfer advising and transfer related matters, and this term has two basic meanings. First, an articulated transfer program can be an agreed upon list of community college courses which best prepares a student for transfer into a particular course of study at a specific school. For instance, there are 81 articulated programs between GCC and the University of Maryland College Park, with many more such articulated programs available for students with the other university campuses on the Eastern Shore, at Baltimore, and in Baltimore County.

Precise course-by-course progam mapping insures that a transfer student from GCC will not lose credit, and will meet all or most of the necessary requirements for admission to a campus of the university system in a given major. According to the current catalog of the University of Maryland College Park (p. 30), "If the applicant takes appropriate courses which are specified in the articulated program guide, and earns an acceptable grade, he/she is guaranteed transfer with no loss of credit." Copies of this articulated program guide are available at the GCC Transfer Office.

A recently completed business transfer program guide for GCC details the necessary courses which a student could take and transfer to any one of nine (9) different schools in seventeen (17) business related major options in areas like accounting, business education, management, secretarial education, and the travel industry. A similar guide is also available for allied health careers.

A second type of articulation which is gaining in popularity is the articulated program transfer, currently in effect at institutions like Frostburg State and Towson State. In this case there is no course-by-course evaluation. On condition that a student earns an Associate in Arts degree in a specific or articulated program, all courses are transferred without loss of credit and the students will have automatically fulfilled the general education requirements at that school, in addition to some courses in the student's major. Most of GCC's liberal arts program majors enjoy this status at Frostburg, Towson, and schools offering this type of transfer option. Frostburg State College publishes a Transfer Credit Guide booklet which details both the articulated programs and the match-up between GCC and Frostburg courses. Copies of this booklet are available at GCC.

At GCC, continuous efforts are made to develop transfer agreements with many colleges and universities by securing, in advance, an across the board evaluation of all Garrett courses. Such evaluations are then used as a basis for academic advising and to develop articulated transfer program models for interested students. To date such transfer evaluations have been completed for GCC by: Alderson-Broaddus, Davis & Elkins, Eastern Mennonite, Fairmont State, Frostburg, Hood, James Madison, Shepherd, Towson, Western Maryland, and West Virginia University. Since GCC is an accredited community college, all colleges and universities throughout the U.S. will accept a student's credit, and the possibilities for expanding the above list of schools are considerable.

In the absence of such formal agreements, effective transfer advising is accomplished by referencing a school's catalog and making direct contact with a school if questions should arise. Altough specific requirements at colleges and universities differ, consistent curricular patterns allow for a latitude of choice when a student is not certain of his/her selection of school.

In general, GCC's Transfer Office acts as a clearing house for transfer related information. For example, although GCC does not offer a nursing program, it does offer the necessary courses for a student to transfer directly into the School of Nursing at the University of Maryland, and also offers a thirty (30) credit hour group of courses which will transfer to Allegany Community College, Cumberland, and apply to ACC's Associate in Arts degree in Nursing.

College Budget Amended Through Added Revenue

During the November 17 meeting of the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees, the GCC budget was amended from $1,969,150 to $2,028,134. The primary cause for the increase was from additional revenue received through the college's Continuing Education operations, according to interim president, Dr. David Puzzuoli.

The revenue received by GCC is expended by function; by state policies these functions are instruction, instructional resources, student affairs, plant operation, general administration, and institutional. Historically, Garrett Community College expended a smaller proportion of its revenue, when compared to other Maryland community colleges, in the instruction function; the college is in the process of improving its position in this function.

The most recent comparative data published by the State Board for Community Colleges is for Fiscal Year 1984. In FY 1984, GCC spent 45 percent of its budget on instruction; the statewide average was 52 percent, and neighboring Allegany Community College spent 58 percent of its budget on instruction. (See chart below)

Garrett Community College is spending approximately the same percentage by function during FY '84 and FY '86; a notable exception is a decrease in administrative expenditures. The college's goal for its FY '87 budget is to increase its instructional expenditures from 45 percent to 48 percent of the budget, said Dr. Puzzuoli.

In addition to instruction, there are two other functions (students affairs and institutional) which vary from the Maryland state averages. "In student affairs, GCC spent three percent more than the average Maryland community college; the emphasis on student affairs is, traditionally, high for a small college such as GCC," said Puzzuoli.

GCC also spends three percent above the statewide average in the institutional function; this is primarily due to the size of GCC's budget and the costs incurred in purchasing items classified as institutional. "Institutional costs such as copying, printing, transportation, etc., are high for every community college, and since GCC has a smaller budget than most other Maryland community colleges, these costs calculate to a greater percentage at GCC," added Puzzuoli.

On the revenue (income) side of the budget, GCC is funded by three primary sources; these are the State of Maryland, Garrett County, and student tuition and fees. In FY '84, GCC was funded 49 percent by the state, 34 percent by Garrett County, 15 percent by student tuition and fees, and 2 percent miscellaneous income. In FY '86, GCC is funded 49.5 percent by the state, 32 percent from Garrett County, 17.5 percent from tuition and fees, and 1 percent from miscellaneous income.

The interim president commented, "The college is optimistic about the upcoming (FY '87) budget. Although the budget will continue to be tight, this can be expected with a $2,000,000 budget. GCC will serve more than 600 credit students, several thousand continuing education students, and in excess of 80,000 square feet of facilities will be managed and maintained. Also, the college will be paying off some debts incurred when GCC initially computerized its operations."

Puzzuoli concluded, "Garrett Community College has implemented a Fixed-Asset (Inventory) Control System which will allow it to better manage its assets and control purchasing, e.g., purchasing duplicate equipment. By having the knowledge of what it owns, the college will now be in a better position to efficiently expend its revenues and the equipment will be more effectively used by its personnel."

Below is a table showing how GCC spent its budget by function and the Maryland community college average by function:

	GCC FY '84	Md. FY '84	GCC FY '86
Instruction	45%	52%	45%
Instructional Resources	4%	6%	5%
Student Affairs	11%	9%	12%
Plant Operations	16%	15%	16%
General Administration	14%	11%	12%
Institutional	10%	7%	10%

Gibson, Lakers Suffer First Defeat With 73-43 Pounding By Charles CC

The Garrett Community College Lakers ran their record to 8-0 this past week before suffering their first defeat, a 73-43 pounding by powerhouse Charles Community College on Saturday in the finals of the Lakers' annual Coca-Cola Christmas Tournament.

Garrett entered the finals by stopping Penn State-McKeesport in one of the opening games on Friday evening, while Charles CC earned the other championship spot by mashing Beaver CC in the first game.

Sean Hazel led the Lakers with 19 points against McKeesport, while Scott Stem was close behind with 18 points. Jim Feagins added 13 points and Jerry Monroe recorded nine rebounds, five assists, and four steals.

Stem pulled down seven rebounds and Jimmy Ragler continued to lead the Lakers in assists with seven.

The Lakers took an early lead and gradually stretched their advantage to 40-17 by halftime.

Leading all scorers was McKeesport's Reggie Reginelli, who netted 26 points, while John Snyder finished with 19.

Charles CC, who has won the Maryland JUCO National Division title the past two seasons, took control of the game against the Lakers from the opening moments, scoring ten points before Ragler netted a pair of free throws to put Garrett on the board. Over five minutes had already expired before Ragler's two free throws.

The Lakers didn't give up, however, and behind the shooting of Scott Stem, came back to within six, 29-23, at halftime.

Charles quickly put the game out of reach in the second half.

Laker Coach Dennis Gibson, who recorded his first loss as a collegiate coach, knew before the game that Charles would be the team to beat in the tournament, noting that they won their division title last season with a freshmen dominated team.

"They played very physically and hurt us on the boards," he said. "We might have been a little too pumped up at the beginning, causing us to get behind early."

Stem led Garrett with 12 points, Hazel netted ten, and Ragler finished with six assists and four steals.

Mike Bozeman led the winners with 20 points, while Ernest Bruno, who was named MVP of the tournament, finished with 18. Ken James chipped in with 14, as Charles CC upped its record to 11-2.

Named to the All-Tournament team were Stem and Hazel of Garrett, Bozeman and Jerry Tolson of Charles, and Jim Gomery of Beaver.

Beaver CC captured third place in the tourney by defeating McKeesport, 64-57, in the consolation round.

The Lakers are presently on a holiday break and will resume competition on January 7 in Pittsburgh against CCAC-North.

Robeson, Torres Lead Huskies Over Oldtown

The Northern Huskies improved their season record to 2-3 last Friday evening by rolling over visiting Oldtown, 73-53, behind 18-point performances by Mike Robeson and Bill Torres.

Coach Harve Speicher's squad held a 17-11 advantage at the end of the first quarter and then erupted for 22 points in the second period to put the game out of reach by halftime, 39-19.

Kevin Selby, a freshman, led the Husky surge in the second quarter by scoring nine of his dozen points for the evening, while John Brobst netted six of his 11 in that same period.

The two teams played evenly in the third and fourth quarter, as the Huskies took a 58-39 advantage into the final stanza.

Selby, Torres, and Brobst each finished with eight rebounds for the winners, while Mike and Mark Robeson were each credited with seven assists.

Pacing the Indians were Tim Hockman and Scott Propst, who finished with 16 apiece. Ron Hose netted 14.

In the junior varsity contest, the younger Huskies also recorded a win over their Oldtown counterparts, 45-34, as Carl Zehr led Northern with 12 points, followed by John Harmke with 11.

The Huskies are slated to play in the Purchase Line Christmas Tournament this weekend in Commadore, Pa.

SHS Girls Lose Snowflake Title To Fort Hill

The Southern High girls varsity topped Meyersdale Saturday evening, 37-29, in an opening round of the Lady Rams' annual Snowflake Classic; however Fort Hill proved to be too strong for Coach Don Stemple's young squad in the finals on Monday as the host team went down to defeat, 46-25.

The Sentinels earned a berth in the finals by topping Valley, 45-21, in the other opening round, and then the Black Knights won the consolation game by edging Meyersdale, 62-58.

Jackie Noe, who was later named to the All-Tournament team, and Vicki Dilgard each netted 11 points for the Lady Rams against Meyersdale, while Jodi Baughman paced the Pennsylvanians with eight points.

The Rams were totally dominated by the more experienced Fort Hill team on Monday, as Vicki Avey and Melissa Rinker led the Sentinels with a dozen points each. Kim Grimm recorded six points to lead Southern.

Rinker was named the Outstanding Player in the tourney, while Avey was also selected to the All-Tournament squad.

The Southern girls will return to action on January 8 when they host cross-county rival, Northern.

Rams Earn Win Over Knights In Typical Shootout

The Southern-Valley varsity basketball game is typically a real shootout and last Friday evening's was no exception as the Rams edged the Black Knights, 52-49, in Oakland.

Valley was playing without their top scorer, John Smith, who was in the hospital with illness, however the Rams were also missing a pair of key players in point guard Max Hill and 6-4 center Jeff Haines, who are both out of action with mononucleosis.

The Rams nipped Valley last season in the Class C Region I championship, 47-46, but lost their entire first string to graduation, plus moved to Class B competition.

Jon Reneslacis, who saw considerable action for the Rams last season, led with 18 points against Valley, while point guard Zack Gibson finished with ten. Just last year as an eighth grader, Gibson served as manager of the Ram team, which featured his brother, J.R. Gibson.

Pacing Valley were Jason Bartlett with 14 points, and Ron Whittington and Frank Garlitz, who each hit a dozen markers.

The contest was close all evening, with the Rams clinging to a one-point advantage by the end of the first quarter, 12-10, and the Knights coming back to assume a 26-24 lead at intermission. The Rams pulled out t a 38-34 lead by the end of the third stanza.

"Valley pressed us practically the entire game," stated Ram Coach Oren Yoder, "and it gave us some problems. Zack (Gibson) had to run the show and he did a good job. He's growing up quickly."

Southern will be back in action this Friday evening at home by hosting its annual Snowball Classic. Other teams participating are Fort Hill, East Preston, and Waynesburg, Pa.

Fort Hill will meet East Preston in Friday's opener at 6:30 p.m., followed by the Southern-Waynesburg matchup at 8:30. The consolation and final games will be played Saturday evening at the same times.

Waynesburg is currently 4-1 on the season, having lost only to a school in Washington, Pa.

tion would be available on the two test wells. Dorsey said that test results as well as cost figures should be ready by early spring.

One problem the meeting did resolve was the water used by senior citizens at the Eastern Garrett County Fire Hall. The SHA did not know that the senior citizens were meeting once a week at the fire hall for lunch, and agreed that water will be hauled to the fire hall for drinking.

All officials seemed to think it was a good meeting, and Senator Bambacus said that the meeting showed a good cooperative spirit between SHA and Finzel residents. "We're looking at a couple of alternatives," he said. "One may be for Finzel to have a sanitary district and get the town's water from Piney Dam."

He said that this problem was first brought to the attention of himself and Delegate Edwards at one of their community meetings, and added that "now that the problem is recognized, we're trying to solve it as best we can."

Holiday Hints For The Diabetic

Pumpkin pies, candy canes, fudge, eggnog — these and other traditional holiday treats can pose special problems for the ten to twelve million people in the United States who are struggling with diabetes, according to Howard Graitzer, D.O., an osteopathic physician and Associate Professor of Medicine at the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, Fort Worth.

Diabetes is a condition in which the body does not produce enough insulin to help utilize the sugars that are eaten. Diabetic patients must monitor and adjust their diets, daily exercise and activities, and insulin intake rigorously. But the holiday season can be a prime time for non-compliance. According to Dr. Graitzer, "Peer pressure and the temptation of traditional foods make it difficult for the diabetic patient, who must eat specific foods at specific times."

Dr. Graitzer recommends that the diabetic patient consult his doctor or dietician to learn how to exchange special holiday foods for other foods in his prescribed diet. By enlisting the aid of his family for cooking and for cleaning up after holiday meals, the diabetic can reduce the temptation to snack and sample.

Some diabetics who are well controlled are able to work an occasional alcoholic drink into their diets. As each of these drinks can account for 10% of daily caloric intake and offer no nutritional value, the diabetic should consult his physician for advice on how to fit drinks into his meal plan. The diabetic should avoid very sugary drinks totally.

With the advent of colder weather and the excitement of the holidays, it is easy for the diabetic to slip out of his regular exercise program. Dr. Graitzer recommends working exercise into the busiest of days by walking instead of riding, taking the stairs rather than the elevator, performing regular chores more quickly and doing light exercises while watching TV.

Attending a late dinner party can pose a problem for the diabetic. His doctor may recommend eating a light snack at the regular meal time.

If holiday plans include travel, there are a few tips Dr. Graitzer has for the diabetic: "Be sure to have a medical check-up before departure and stock up on all prescriptions. If you are flying, carry your medication in your hand luggage. Your dietician or physician can help you to adjust your meal schedules if you will be traveling across time zones. If you are visiting a foreign country, a letter from your doctor might be helpful if you will be carrying needles and syringes. Always carry roll candy or peanut butter crackers in case meals are delayed or an emergency arises.

"By keeping these few precautions in mind, you will keep healthy, trim and fit and enjoy the holidays to the fullest!"

Test Your Knowledge

Facts And Fiction About Strep Throat

Sore throats account for up to 40 million doctor visits each year. In most cases, they are just another bit of discomfort to be endured with the common cold — and just as incurable, because the same virus is to blame. But one out of 10 sore throats is caused by bacteria called streptococci — or strep for short.

In late winter and early spring, the strep toll may be as high as six or seven out of ten sore throats. We have all come to fear strep because it can cause rheumatic fever and other serious complications. But how much do you really know about strep throat? Test your knowledge with this quiz.

Q. How can I tell if I have strep throat?

A. You can't. Even a physician may have difficulty making a correct diagnosis without a laboratory test.

Q. Are there certain telltale symptoms that are seen commonly with strep throat?

A. Yes. They include beefy red throat, swollen lymph nodes, fever, and the absence of other cold symptoms, like runny nose. But these same symptoms may be seen with other diseases.

Q. True or false: Strep throat is a childhood disease.

A. False. Although youngsters between the ages of 5 and 15 are at highest risk, anyone can get strep throat.

Q. How long does it take before the doctor gets laboratory results back?

A. If your doctor's office has the Culturette 10-minute Group A Strep ID test, it's a matter of minutes. The traditional throat culture takes 24 to 48 hours.

Q. Are strep throat symptoms the same in babies and adults?

A. No. Babies and toddlers often have more nausea and vomiting, while adults suffer from painful swallowing.

Q. Is there a "strep season"?

A. Yes. In fact there are two: early fall and the late winter/early spring months.

If you did well on the quiz, you know that there is good news and bad news about strep. The bad news is that strep can be serious and is difficult to diagnose. The good news is that the simple 10-minute diagnostic test from Marion Laboratories is becoming a new weapon in the fight against strep. Because lab results are immediately available, treatment can begin on the spot and the patient will usually stop being contagious within 24 hours.

Some Facts About Obesity and Dieting

Dieting, for the purpose of losing weight, is a prevalent and often frustrating preoccupation for millions of Americans. According to national statistics, one out of every three of us is obese, in the sense that we weigh at least 20 percent more than we should. How many of us are dieting at any given time? That's difficult to say, but it has been observed that losing weight may rank second only to baseball as the national pastime.

People gain weight for a variety of reasons. Genetic, environmental or psychological factors can cause increases in weight. Less frequently, a medical problem is involved—a glandular dysfunction, for example. The most common cause of weight gain, however, is an imbalance between energy (in the form of calories) taken in and energy expended. Put another way, when we eat more calories than our bodies need or can use, we gain weight.

Obesity is a major public health problem in the United States; it can bring on major health problems for you. We know that obesity is either a risk factor in the development of or is associated with high blood pressure, increased levels of cholesterol and fats in the blood, diabetes, osteoarthritis, some types of cancer and gall bladder disease. Obesity increases the risk of complications in pregnancy. It also has been shown to increase your chances of having a heart attack.

Our bodies vary in the efficiency with which they utilize energy. For this reason, alone, the treatment of obesity should be tailored to the individual. Beware of highly advertised weight loss regimens—the low carbohydrate diets, the high protein diets, the high fat diets, the grapefruit diet, water diet and so forth. Watch out, as well, for appetite depressants or hormones, bulking agents, diet gadgets and any other methods that promise fast weight loss. Attempts to lose weight quickly can be harmful to your health, and they are almost certain to fail, because you are almost certain to return, in time, to your old eating habits.

Think about it: your eating habits, and your weight gain, developed slowly, over many years. If you would now change those eating habits—and changing them is the key to successful and lasting weight reduction—you should do so gradually, as a long-range project, with the guidance of a physician or nutritionist, who can provide expert advice on a diet that will work best for you.

Eating fewer calories is fine, but if you want to lose weight, you must also expend more calories, for which reason you should plan to couple your new eating habits with an individually tailored exercise program. Your exercising need not be particularly strenuous—moderation is the best approach, in fact, at least at the beginning—but it should be enjoyable, so that you will want to stay with it. Bicycling, dancing, swimming, running, walking and tennis are forms of exercise that most of us enjoy. Whatever your preference, the point to remember is that regular, sustained exercise is important not only because it burns up calories but because it improves muscle tone and circulation. Exercise also aids in appetite control. Studies have shown a decrease in appetite following exercise, due to an increased production of certain chemicals that appear to play a role in the regulation of the brain's appetite centers.

The battle against obesity is never easy. Winning that battle requries a great deal of motivation. So, look to the positive aspects of weight loss; think about how much better you will look and feel and how much healthier you are certain to be once you have lost those pounds for good. The struggle may be difficult, but the rewards are more than worth the effort.

Rowlesburg, W. Va.

Hello everyone. This month I'm going to tell you about emphysema. Emphysema is not curable, but it can be treated. Those who have it can be helped to live with it. It is a destructive disease for hundreds of thousands of Americans and their families.

Persons with emphysema are, for the most part, males between 50 and 70 years old. Women get emphysema, too, but not as often as men. A very high percentage of the people who have emphysema smoke cigarettes and have been heavy smokers for many years. Frequently, they live in areas where air pollution is a constant problem.

Some people are born with a lack of substance called alpha one antitrypsin. This makes them more likely than others to get emphysema and at an earlier age.

A person with emphysema doesn't develop the disease suddenly. It comes on gradually. He has probably had several very bad colds each winter for the past few years, each accompanied by a heavy cough, and often with chronic bronchitis. The cough often persists between colds and becomes chronic.

The thing that usually brings the patient to his doctor is that he has begun to feel short of breath or exertion in morning or evening or both. He may think he has asthma or heart disease. It is believed that emphysema often is a late effect of chronic infection or irritation of bronchial tubes. These tubes, the bronchi, connect the windpipe with the lungs. The bronchi look like branches of a tree, with the branches becoming smaller and smaller until each one ends in a cluster of tiny air spaces in the lungs. From these tiny spaces (alveoli) oxygen enters the blood when air is breathed in, and waste gas (carbon dioxide) is removed from the lungs by breathing out.

When the bronchi become irritated, some of the airways may be obstructed, trapping air in the lung beyond them. Or the walls of the tiny air spaces may tear, for various reasons. The small blood vessels in the walls disappear. Less contact between blood and air results.

If infection or irritation continues or is repeated for a long time and the stretching and destruction of the walls of the air space goes on, the lungs as a whole may become enlarged, at the same time becoming less efficient in exchanging oxygen for carbon dioxide. Enlarged lungs is what gives the disease its name, emphysema (which is a Greek word meaning "inflation").

The changes of emphysema also interfere with the passage of blood through the small blood vessels of the lung. As interference grows, the heart must work harder to pump blood. The heart may enlarge under the strain and eventually give out. This type of heart failure is often an end result of emphysema.

Doctors can help emphysema patients live more comfortably with their disease. Different treatments, including antibiotics, help different patients at different times. Under a doctor's care, most patients can get relief from their attacks of breathlessness.

If a man's job does not require heavy physical labor, his doctor will usually say that he can continue to work. It is very important for the patient to stop smoking to help avoid further irritation and damage.

People with emphysema, with the help of breathing retraining, carefully selected exercises, and aid in keeping their lungs clear of excess fluids, can learn to make the best use of the breathing capacity they have.

At this time, doctors do not know how to prevent emphysema. Continuing research is being conducted to find answers to many questions about this disease. But they do know that cigarette smoking is a definite cause, and that cutting out smoking can avoid damage for many who would otherwise develop the disease.

Modern medicine can usually slow down the progress of emphysema if patients are treated early. It is always the doctor's immediate concern to clear up any infection or irritation of a patients respiratory system, because these things set up a possible starting place for emphysema.

That takes care of about all I know about emphysema. I want to take this opportunity to thank Ann Hoover with the American Lung Association of W. Va. for all the help she has given me this past year in supplying leaflets for me to hand out to the groups and organizations I have spoken with in Preston County. Also, I want to wish everyone Happy Holidays from the staff of Preston Medical Associates.

Help Your Heart

Many cigarette smokers who switch to cigars or a pipe fail to lower their risk of lung cancer and perhaps heart disease because they continue to inhale, a University of Minnesota researcher recently reported. The tobacco smoke inhalation pattern becomes so ingrained that many ex-cigarette smokers adapt it to their pipe and cigar smoking, Terry F. Pechacek, Ph.D., told an American Heart Association meeting.

"These pipe and cigar smokers exhale much of the smoke, but then deeply inhale a blend of air and the small amount of smoke left in the mouth," he explains. Because pipe and cigar smoke is much more dense than cigarette smoke, it contains significant amounts of damaging chemicals even when it's diluted, says Dr. Pechacek.

Until now, pipes and cigars were considered to be a relatively safe alternative, but those risk assessments were based on data collected in the 1950s and early 1960s, says Dr. Pechacek. He is an assistant professor of epidemiology at the School of Public Health in Minneapolis. "Back then, most of the pipe and cigar smokers had never smoked cigarettes regularly, so they usually did not inhale," he says. "Large numbers of regular cigarette smokers switching to pipes and cigars happened only more recently."

Dr. Pechacek and his colleagues surveyed 9,106 male and female smokers in several communities in Minnesota and North and South Dakota. They located 114 cigar, cigarillo or pipe smokers who had never smoked cigarettes and 194 who had. The 194 ex-cigarette smokers who had switched had significantly higher blood serum levels of "thiocyanate," a chemical indicator of smoke inhalation, Dr. Pechacek says. "The thiocyanate data suggest the amount of smoke that actually goes into the lungs of pipe and cigar smokers is surprisingly high."

Some doctors are starting to notice cases of lung cancer in people who quit smoking cigarettes 15 or 20 years ago but continue to smoke pipes or cigars, Dr. Pechacek says. Because switching from cigarettes to pipes and cigars is a relatively recent trend, it will be years before a large number of such cases shows up in death statistics, he says. "We think it's wrong to wait for those statistics before warning cigarette smokers that switching to pipes and cigars may not lower their risk of disease."

New Horizons Has Transportation, Child Care Help

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College has set aside a sum of $1,500 to assist program participants needing child care and/or transportation assistance while taking vocational training at Garrett Community College in either vocational non-credit or credit areas.

The New Horizons Program assists single parents, working or non-working, who are unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and have minor children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody, and homemakers who are adults and who have worked as an adult in the home to care for family without pay and for that reason have diminished marketable skills. Special consideration will be given to homemakers who are separated, divorced, or widowed and for that reason need to enter the job market and need specific skills to make that transition. Income eligibility will be the determining factor in providing child care/transportation assistance.

New Horizons also has $5,000 tuition money available to assist these individuals in taking the vocational training they select, as well as assistance in purchasing the materials needed for the classes involved.

To learn more about the New Horizons Program or to determine eligiblity for assistance, persons should contact New Horizons between 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 334-9184 to schedule an appointment with a staff member or visit the New Horizons office weekdays at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College.

YOUR NEW YEAR!

What will you make of it? It depends on you. What the New Year will be depends not so much on outward circumstances as on inner ones: on your spirit, your values, and your purpose. In many ways, this New Year will be exactly like the last. It will have about the same number of hours, days and weeks, the same places to go and the same people to see.

If this New Year is to be better than the last, then there must be a better mood within ourselves. We must set higher goals and make more serious, more practical resolutions. We must strive for understanding and for compassionate minds with which to approach people and events. Anytime is a good time to begin again, but New Year's is the traditional best.

Let's truly start anew so that we can partake of all the success, happiness and fulfillment that a God-Given and God-Centered New Year can bring. Start in the church or synagogue of your choice!

GIVE THE KIDS A BREAK IN 1986

The future belongs to the young, that is if they are around long enough to enjoy it. This coming year resolve to give your children better odds on growing up happy, healthy and with a chance to reap the full benefits of life.

You can start off in the car by promising to keep doors locked and safety belts fastened. Follow this up with home safety. Keep things out of reach that spell potential harm. Certainly foremost on this list would be any and all medicines and poisonous substances.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DOES JESUS LIVE HERE?

December 29, 1985

Background Scripture:
Mark 4:26-32; Matthew 22:34-40; Luke 18:9-14
Devotional Reading:
Mark 4:26-32.

Somewhere many years ago, I read of a man who would knock on doors and ask: "Does Jesus live here?" No matter what response he would get, that was all he would ever say: "Does Jesus live here?"

You can imagine the different kinds of responses he encountered. Some people were deeply offended at the question and told him so. Others were annoyed at being disturbed and slammed the door in his face. Some tried to engage him in a discussion of their religious views. A few found the man's questions an occasion for reflection and self-examination.

SELF-EXALTING

The man didn't want to discuss religious ideas, nor was he interested in which church the various people attended. All he wanted to know was whether these people were living with Christ in their lives and homes.

When we are concerned with God's reign in our lives, we are pretty much dealing with what Jesus termed the "Kingdom of God" or the "Kingdom of Heaven." Some day, Jesus promised, God will rule this earth completely and fully. In the meantime, what he seeks to do is to rule in the lives of each and every one of us. If he is Lord of our lives, to that extent his Kingdom is established in our midst.

And how can we be sure that he is reigning in our lives? Jesus actually gave us some pretty important tests. In the parable of the tax collector and the Pharisee who went to the tempie to pray, Jesus makes it clear that, if God reigns in us, then we will humble, not exalt ourselves before him. If our relationship with Christ causes us to feel pride as the Pharisee did, then Christ does not really dwell within us.

AND YOUR NEIGHBOR

Jesus never gave his disciples a clearer explanation of what it means for God to live in us than when he said, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, soul and...mind. And... you shall love your neighbor as yourself" (Matt. 22:37-39). If any person does this, he will be living the Kingdom on earth, for God in Christ will be ruling his life.

Have you ever stopped to think what kind of world this would be if from one end of it to another people would master those two commandments? They wouldn't need any more theology, creeds, or confessions of faith. If only one page of the Bible were to survive for future generations, this page would be sufficient to provide the world with the reign of God in all its fullness.

And no one would need to fear being ask: "Does God live here?"

Will 1986 turn out to be Linda's year?

By Gregory Garver

It's been a good year for Linda Thorson. It's also been a bad year.

Linda Thorson

First, the bad news. The actress was going to make a pilot for Aaron Spelling and CBS, but the project was canceled before the cameras began rolling. Then Miss Thorson flew to Amsterdam to appear in an episode of Robert Wagner's new series, "Lime Street." That show was also canceled before her episode aired.

Now the good news. Nearly nine months ago, Miss Thorson had a baby, Trevor Boggs. Her husband is sometimes-actor Bill Boggs, who is the host of "Midday," a New York City talk show. The actress also appeared in three episodes of "St. Elsewhere," and the recently-released film "Flanagan," co-starring Geraldine Page and Philip Bosco.

Then there is talk that "Noises Off," the recent Broadway hit, will become a film. Steven Spielberg has bought the rights to the film, and rumor has it that Miss Thorson will join other original cast members when the English import hits the big screen.

Audiences will remember Miss Thorson from her role on "The Avengers." She played Tara King, the character that replaced Diana Rigg's role as Emma Peel. Many people — perhaps because of her "Avengers" role — think Miss Thorson is English, but she's actually Canadian.

She was born in Toronto, but moved to England when she was 16. She became the youngest scholarship student ever accepted by the prestigious Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts. Miss Thorson studied and worked in England for 14 years. The fatal illness of her mother brought her back to Canada.

"I spent a year looking after my mother until she died," Miss Thorson recalls. "I was working in a Toronto theater at the same time. When Mom died, I came to Los Angeles, but at the time, I didn't like it here very much."

That was when she met Boggs. After marrying him, she relocated to New York, but now, with a potential TV/film career looming on the horizon, there's the possibility that the Boggses will give California one more try.

"I know California would be a wonderful environment for my son," the actress says.

Rib-bit! Kermit the Frog joins Al Jarreau, Sheila E., Exile and Kool & the Gang for "Happy New Year, America," a festive two-hour live special airing Tuesday, Dec. 31 on CBS.

STAR STYLE

Darcel stays solid by dancing, fasting

By Renee Ross

"Solid Gold" lead dancer Darcel Wynne ignores the scale and still maintains her slim figure.

Darcel Wynne

"I never weigh myself," explains Miss Wynne, 30, who began studying dance at age three. "Instead, I have a special pair of jeans that I've kept for three years. When I can't fit into them, I know it's time to diet."

And while most people set aside exercise time after work, Miss Wynne and her seven dancing cast members stay trim while they earn their paychecks.

"We burn off a lot of calories during our day, which can run to eight hours or more of dancing," she says. "Throughout the daily shooting schedule, we have periodic breaks, when I'll stretch or jog around the lot. I also try to do a few hundred sit-ups during the day.

"I've always been athletic; it's part of me," adds the Pittsburgh native. "I was raised in Los Angeles and used to jog in marathon races at the beach."

When she's not dancing for dollars, Miss Wynne also stays in shape by following the exercises in "Solid Body Workout," her recently released video.

"I put it on and get a 58-minute workout," explains Miss Wynne. "It's kind of funny to be watching yourself, but I know the routine by heart since I worked on it for a year."

Miss Wynne says she switched from jogging to pumping iron for additional body tone-ups. "I got bored doing the same things," she says. "It's more interesting if you vary your exercise."

The 5-foot-5, 119-pound dancer relies on frequent nutritional fasts. "I start with lemon juice and water for three days," she says, "then have juices and gradually go back to salads and solid food.

"Fasting is good for me because I like to have control over my body. If it tells me it's hungry, I don't pay it any mind. Sometimes I'll get a headache on a fast, but it's just because toxins are being released from my system.

"Since I take care of my body," Miss Wynne adds, "I enjoy junk food once in a while. I don't have it every day, so I look forward to a hamburger, hot fudge brownie or taco now and then."

Miss Wynne, married to Glen Leonard, former member of the Temptations, credits her religious convictions with keeping her life on a positive path. "I'm a born-again Christian," she says. "I have that to turn to, as well as the love and support of my family. That's what gets me through when times are stressful."

Woody's secret flick; Joan's on the run

By Cindy Adams

The unnamed Woody Allen flick is set in the '40s. Guy Lebow, boss of WYWK-FM and former sports editor for NBC, is playing a sportscaster. He's been costumed in suits of the '40s, so that's how he knows and that's how I know. I also saw Woody scrambling for a cab on Madison Avenue in New York, wearing a belted jacket and plaid cap. It really looked as if he was scratching around that wardrobe department.

Woody Allen

More movie stuff: Robert Stigwood has conned Mel Gibson into co-starring with John Travolta in "Far From Over," the sequel to the sequel to "Saturday Night Fever." ... Kari Malden is turning producer. He'll star in his own production of Robert Nathan's novel "The Color of Evening."

Still more movie stuff: Dolph Lundgren, the other hunk in "Rocky IV," says his younger brother, Johann, is bigger and better looking. Dolph wants to import baby bro to start a movie career. Johann is 22.

Joan Collins

After a big ball in Palm Beach, Fla., was over cameramen covering the fete charged Joan Collins. One asked: "How's this husband better than the others?" Joan groaned: "Oh, God." Gene Smith, the Breakers Hotel's evening manager, said: "I'll get you away from them. Can you run?" Joan (in spiked heels) said: "Try me." So they cantered across marble floors and into the wrong limo. "You mind giving Joan Collins a lift?" Smith asked a startled Helen Boehm. Joan got a lift all the way to Helen's for a nightcap. It was 1:30 a.m.

Checking out facts on hunky soap star

By Kimberly Redmond

I'd like to know if Kevin Bernhardt, the actor who portrays Kevin O'Connor on "General Hospital," is married. Also, could you also tell me about his pre-"GH" career? — J.H., Glenwood, Iowa

Kevin Bernhardt

Bernhardt, who was born in Daytona Beach, Fla., is single and lives in Los Angeles with his dog, Valentino. He headed for New York City at an early age, working odd jobs between college studies. He eventually earned a Bachelor's degree in theater arts and economics. Although acting was always his first career choice, Bernhardt says he took economics courses — just in case he needed an alternate career.

The actor has also appeared in several theater productions, including "Romeo and Juliet," "A Streetcar Named Desire," "Bus Stop" and "West Side Story." He was also in the film, "Chasing the Sword."

Bernhardt takes weekly voice lessons, plays the guitar and writes lyrics to songs.

I'm very disappointed that Emily McLaughlin, the actress who played Jessie Brewer on "General Hospital" for years, hasn't been on the show lately. Has she been written off permanently? — B.R., Jacksonville Beach, Fla.

Miss McLaughlin hasn't been written off of the soap, but like many actors who have dedicated many years of their acting careers to a soap opera, the actress has been relegated to infrequent appearances and no major story line of her own.

MONDAY

Jack Lemmon (l.) stars as a dying Broadway press agent trying to reconcile with his estranged son (Robby Benson) in Bernard Slade's "Tribute," airing Tuesday, Dec. 30 on NBC. Lee Remick also stars.

BEHIND THE SCENES

'Nature' host keeps series looking natural

By Frank Lovece

"Now, we see Willy the otter, fishing for his dinner. Whoops! Looks like that fish got away from the little fellow! Well, Willy's a good sport. He'll just try again."

George Page

Willy the otter wouldn't make it on "Nature," the critically acclaimed documentary series that airs Sundays on PBS. Neither would the old-style scriptwriters who insisted on giving wild animals cute names and human characteristics.

"It's a cheap shot to do that," says "Nature" host and narrator George Page. "Our goal is to report the reality of the natural world, and animals are not human beings — we simply don't know the extent to which they have emotions. Fortunately," he adds in his soft Southern voice, "I think Americans are much more sophisticated now than in the days of Disney animal films."

Apparently so. The films on "Nature" are fascinating and awesome — anything but cute.

New shows this season have explored the massive Selva Verde rainforest, where the jaguars and kinkajous play, the Tsavo plains of Kenya, a real-life Indiana Jones setting except for the killer drought, India's endangered Ganges gharial, perhaps the ugliest and most passive crocodile on the planet, and the Scottish Isle of May.

"Normally, TV programming people don't use their own personal taste in making decisions," Page, 50, observes. "But I've always personally enjoyed natural history programs, so I'm a very lucky person. I think my strong interest may have grown out of my childhood in a small town in Georgia." After starting out in television 25 years ago as a news correspondent in Atlanta, Page eventually worked his way to his current post as a director of arts and sciences programming at New York's WNET, a preeminent PBS station and program supplier.

In that capacity, Page has instigated his share of changes in nature programming. Probably the most important is in television's attitude toward controlled filming conditions.

"Apparently in the past, he says, "predators and prey were put in small enclosures so filmmakers could film confrontation and death. I think that's absolutely wrong. You have to use controlled conditions sometimes — for example, to show an underground mole rat, you put it in an environment with a glass partition, like in an art-farm. This isn't in any way cruel, and afterward," he adds, "you return the animal to its natural habitat."

Yes, they even sing. "Love Boat" star Ted McGinley and "Colbys" star Emma Samms warble a tune or two when they co-host "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve — '86," airing Tuesday, Dec. 31 on ABC.

Woodward finds out how other half lives

By Gillian George

If Edward Woodward strikes you as an unusual actor to be starring in a rough, tough series like "The Equalizer," well, he's delighted. In fact, he would like nothing more than to further confound his bemused viewers by revealing another surprising facet of his career.

Edward Woodward

In his native England, Woodward is known as much for his singing as his acting. He has no less than 12 pop albums to his credit; four of them have even gone gold.

But don't expect Robert McCall, the wise, enigmatic ex-government agent Woodward plays on the series, to burst into song. That, says Woodward, would be strictly out of character — and being out of character is a professional sin he's not about to commit.

Woodward says he's already stretched himself in many new directions for his first American television series. Although McCall bears superficial resemblance to the heroic secret agent he played back home in the old "Callan" series, the Woodward we're seeing in "The Equalizer" is a far cry from the man the actor played in "Breaker Morant," his most famous movie role to date.

So, what is McCall like? "He's not someone I'd really care to spend that much time with," explains Woodward. "He's basically a man of violence, but because he's seen so much of it in his former career, you can see his disgust with it. The character is in a state of transition, and we draw as near as we can to the life of the man and the way his psyche and attitude change and progress. Now he's learning to live again."

Which is not an entirely inexact description of the 55-year-old actor. His life hasn't been on hold the past few years, but he says he feels he's more or less living a new version of it since swapping London for New York, where "The Equalizer" is shot. Woodward points out, however, that he actually lived in New York for three years during the '60s while appearing on Broadway in "Rattle of a Simple Man" and Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit."

"I bet I could take even a native New Yorker to some piers and other disgusting spots they never dreamed existed," he says. "And that's not even mentioning the gritty little clubs where we shoot. I think I probably know the seamy side of New York better than any other Englishman alive."

WEDNESDAY

The New Year has just begun — at least as far as Snoopy and Woodstock are concerned. The animated duo ring in the old — and new — in "Happy New Year, Charlie Brown." The special airs Wednesday, Jan. 1 on CBS.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Networks ring in 1986 with gimmicks, games

By Marc Minnelli

Balloons. Noisemakers. Streamers. And, of course, champagne. This is New Year's week, a time to forget the past, plan the future and promise to (a) go on a diet, (b) quit smoking or (c) finally finish reading "Hollywood Wives."

While you're making those resolutions, why not catch one of TV's many New Year's specials? There are enough to keep you bubbly long after the Dom Perignon is gone. All times are EST.

Johnny Carson starts New Year's Eve off with some bangs and blues when B.B. King and Laura Branigan join him for a special all-performance "Tonight Show." The action starts 11:30 p.m. on NBC.

Football fans who aren't hung over can enjoy "The 1986 Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade," a grandiose gesture now in its 97th year. Grand Marshal Erma Bombeck and Tournament of Roses Queen Aimee Lynn Richelieu lead a five-and-a-half mile procession down the sunny streets of Southern California. "Wheel of Fortune" host Pat Sajak is the official host. The shindig begins at 11 a.m. on NBC.

The afternoon is open for NBC football. The Fiesta Bowl (starting 1:30) features the Michigan Wolverines vs. the Nebraska Cornhuskers; the Rose Bowl (4:45) features the Iowa Hawkeyes against the the UCLA Bruins and the Orange Bowl (8:00) pits the Penn State Nittany Lions against the Oklahoma Sooners.

ABC kicks off New Year's Week on Monday, Dec. 30 with the 8 p.m. Gator Bowl, live from Jacksonville, Fla. The action will be between Oklahoma State and Florida State.

Looking to rock in '86? "Colbys" star Emma Samms and "Love Boat" crew member Ted McGinley co-host "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve — 86," a rousing 90-minute extravaganza featuring performances by Barry Manilow, Tears for Fears, the Motels, the Judds and the Four Tops. Set your dial for 11:30 p.m. on ABC.

The next day, pigskin fans can sweeten New Year's Day with the Sugar Bowl, airing live from New Orleans at 8 p.m. The ABC game features Miami against Tennessee.

Al Jarreau breaks away to hosts CBS's "Happy New Year, America," with stars (Kool & the Gang, Louise Mandrell, Sheila E.) and amphibians (Kermit the Frog). The special airs New Year's Eve with action, live from various hotspots in the nation. It starts at 11:30.

Sports buffs will enjoy spending New Year's Eve watching the Fighting Illini battle the Army Cadets when the Peach Bowl airs, live from Atlanta, at 2:30 p.m. The next day, it's the Auburn Tigers vs. the Texas A&M Aggies when the Cotton Bowl airs live from Dallas at 1:30 p.m. Both games air on CBS.

Good grief! Have we left out the kiddies? There's "Happy New Year, Charlie Brown," a new CBS Peanuts special airing New Year's Day at 8 p.m. Everyone will be on hand to make sure Charli's mammoth homework assignment doesn't ruin his holiday vacation.

This is the movie you've been dying to see. Michael Keaton (l.) and Henry Winkler star as morgue attendants who help run a prostitution ring behind the doors of the New York City morgue in "Night Shift," airing Tuesday, Dec. 31 on CBS.

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I loved "North and South," and can't wait for part two. What can you tell me about Patrick Swayze? — S.P., Coarsegold, Calif.

Patrick Swayze

Swayze, who played rebel Orry Main in "North and South," hails from Houston, Texas. His mother is the choreographer who was responsible for the dance numbers in "Urban Cowboy."

The actor toured the country as a member of "Disney on Parade," before settling in New York, where he studied ballet with the Harkness and Joffrey Ballet Companies. He eventually won the role of Danny Duko in the Broadway musical "Grease."

Swayze also appeared in several TV movies, including "The Return of the Rebels" and "The Comeback Kid." His theatrical films include "Red Dawn," "Uncommon Valor" and "Youngblood." Swayze is married and he and his wife, actress-dancer Lisa Niemi, live in Los Angeles.

I have 19-year-old Mongoloid daughter who's in love with William Shatner. She's always watching "Star Trek" and "T.J. Hooker," and I'm looking to give her some photos or posters of the actor. I'd appreciate any addresses you can supply. — L.M.L., Vintondale, Penn.

The Collectors Book Store (7014 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90028) has several items from which you can choose. Address your letters to the attention of Malcolm Willets. He will give you a complete selection and price list.

You should also drop a note to Shatner himself. His address is 1888 Century Park East, Suite 622, Los Angeles, CA 90067. Good luck.

William Shatner

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

My friend and I have a bet. I say Art Linkletter was the host of the TV series "Queen for a Day." She insists that it was Dennis James. Help! — G.D.N., Caukel, N.Y.

Art Linkletter

Cancel the bet, you're both wrong. The host of "Queen for a Day" (1955-64) was Jack Bailey. Jeanne Cagney, sister of screen veteran James Cagney, was the show's fashion commentator. In 1970, the series resurfaced with Dick Curtis as the host. Nancy Myers was the new fashion commentator.

I have always been a fan of Vic Morrow, the actor who starred in "Combat." Not too long ago, Morrow died while making a film. Do you think that movie will ever be released? — C.F., St. Louis, Mo.

I hate to wake you up, C.F., but the movie that you refer to is Steven Spielberg's "The Twilight Zone." It was released about two years ago.

I hate sports! I turn on the TV and all I see is football, baseball, hockey, ice-skating, roller derbies and basketball. Ugh! There are some of us — especially me — who simply want to relax and watch a good film. Val, what can we do to rid the tube of superfluous sports? — E.M., Buena Vista, Va.

I'm not sure if my comments will bring you any comfort, E.M. Sport events are televised because they bring big bucks to the networks. Advertisers pay for air time, knowing people tune in to see their favorite players running the bases or making a touchdown.

What can a sports-hater do? Very little. Why not investigate cable channels that show old movies or cartoons? Good luck.

Vic Morrow

Governor Hughes Approves WIC Program Changes

Governor Harry Hughes has approved a major change in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) nutritional program to make it more accessible to needy clients. Included in the plan is a bi-monthly distribution of food vouchers, beginning in February, in home delivery jurisdictions.

"These changes," Governor Hughes said, "should address many of the problems that clients experienced during the recent transition to the federally-mandated voucher system."

He also announced a ten-point plan, developed in coordination with Maryland Health Secretary Adele Wilzack, to provide immediate assistance to some WIC clients.

The plan includes operation of a WIC hardship hotline, development of an outreach team to assist WIC clients, use of a mobile WIC unit to provide services, and special technical assistance for some jurisdictions.

"The WIC program is extremely important to thousands of women and children in our State," Governor Hughes said, "and it is essential that we work to reduce or eliminate any barriers that inhibit participation."

In advising local health officers of the plan, Secretary Wilzack said she will decide whether to make the bimonthly system permanent after she receives a re-evaluation of certain WIC programs. The re-evaluation will include Baltimore City and several counties.

She also said that during the next six months, the State will develop a new computer system, put into effect statewide standards for handling voucher caseloads, and will provide appropriate management evaluations in selected jurisdictions.

"Our goal is to establish the best method of operation under which the local jurisdiction can provide the most service," Ms. Wilzack said, "since our federal dollars are limited."

The ten-point plan announced by Governor Hughes today is designed to assist clients who are experiencing difficulty in obtaining vouchers which are required to receive food. It includes:

—a waiver of the automatic termination requirement for failure to pick up vouchers for two successive months;

—an outreach team to assist participants in obtaining vouchers;

—development of regulations to allow local agencies to mail vouchers to certain handicapped or ill individuals who are unable to pick up their vouchers;

—a hardship hotline for clients with questions on how or where to receive vouchers. The toll-free number is 1-800-492-0618;

—a WIC mobile unit to provide services to people with special hardships;

—special technical assistance for Baltimore City and several counties;

—efforts to increase public awareness of the program through health care providers, churches and civic organizations;

—DHMH volunteers at pick-up centers to assist clients and their children;

—requesting churches and civic organizations to provide special services to WIC participants, including the identification of proxies, transportation pools and child care;

—and a survey to determine why some participants have not picked up their vouchers to determine if corrective action is needed.

Governor Hughes urged organizations and community groups involved in the delivery of WIC services to work with the State to implement this plan.

"Given the importance of this program to many needy families, we must work together to ensure its success," he said.

Hughes To Wage War On Drug, Alcohol Abuse

Governor Harry Hughes unveiled a statewide "Live Free" campaign Tuesday involving law enforcement agencies and community organizations in an effort to raise public awareness of drug and alcohol abuse among Maryland's young people.

At a Government House reception recognizing organizations and individuals combatting substance abuse, he announced that the State Police will begin the campaign early in 1986.

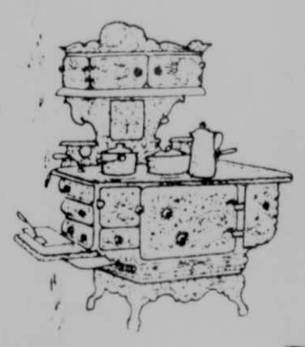
To be run in conjunction with the Maryland Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth (MFP), one of the groups honored at the reception, the campaign will involve public service announcements, special television programs and the establishment of "Live Free" councils in every jurisdiction.

The Governor said the purpose of the councils would be to evaluate local enforcement, treatment and prevention efforts and to hold meetings to encourage public input and involvement in the campaign.

He said Maryland, along with the rest of the nation, has been experiencing an alarming increase in drug and alcohol abuse. He cited a 14 percent rise in admissions to drug treatment programs during the past year and said it is estimated that more than a hundred thousand Marylanders are addicted to drugs.

"While substance abuse at any age is tragic," Governor Hughes said, "the involvement of our children and youth in serious abuse of drugs and alcohol is of particular concern."

He noted that studies have shown a link between substance abuse and poor academic performance, school drop-out rates and other problems.



Governor Hughes said the State Police and the Maryland Federation of Parents will seek the involvement of local law enforcement agencies, community organizations and parent and youth groups in the effort.

Food, Nutrition Council Named

Governor Harry Hughes has established by executive order a cabinet-level council that will work to reduce malnutrition and disease among Marylanders by promoting better nutrition and dietary habits.

"There is considerable evidence," the Governor said, "that poor diet is a contributing factor in the development of a number of illnesses, including cancer, hypertension and cardiovascular disease."

He noted that as much as one-third of all health care expenditures can be attributed to poor nutrition. He cited that as one reason why better education and information on diet and nutrition is necessary.

The Governor said four major State agencies and numerous public and private organizations currently provide about $300 million of food and nutrition services in Maryland. But he pointed out that a report from his Task Force on Food and Nutrition said greater coordination among the various public and private services was needed to make them more effective and to maximize the State's participation in federal food programs.

The Governor's Cabinet Council on the Coordination of Food and Nutrition Services will attempt to address some of those concerns.

Among the council's mandates are:

—developing a comprehensive state policy on food and nutrition services;

—evaluating the feasibility and desirability of consolidating and simplifying food program plans;

—providing information and recommendations on programs and spending in this area, and establishing annual food and nutrition priorities;

—identifying and monitoring nutritional needs of Marylanders;

—and fostering public and private coordination in meeting those needs.

The Cabinet Council will consist of the secretaries of the departments of Human Resources, Health and Mental Hygiene, and Agriculture, and the state superintendent of schools and director of the Office on Aging. The chairman of the State Advisory Council on Nutrition will serve as an ex-officio member.

It will be advised by a 14-member State Advisory Council on Nutrition, established by the same executive order, which will report to the council, Governor and General Assembly.

The State Advisory Council will ensure that nutritional experts and concerned citizens have a voice in the formulation of state policy in this area.

County Receives Park Revenue For First Quarter

Each year Garrett County receives 25 percent of all revenue collected in state forests and state parks in lieu of county property tax.

According to Forest, Park and Wildlife Service Director Donald MacLauchlan, monies returned to Garrett County during the first quarter of fiscal 1986 (July 1-September 30, 1985) amounted to $37,162.

In fiscal year 1985 the County received a total of $279,746 from income received at Deep Creek Lake, Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, New Germany and Big Run State Parks and Savage River and Potomac/Garrett State Forests. Studies have shown that visitors to State forests and parks spend additional tourist dollars in the local areas, thus giving an economic boost to the county without the burden of providing services. MacLauchlan added, "In 1985 approximately six million people visited State parks and forests in Maryland. Statewide, the Forest, Park and Wildlife Service reimbursed to Maryland counties nearly $962,000 in fiscal 1985. It's easy to see that the State parks and forests provide more to Garrett County than just recreational opportunities.

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service is a unit of the Department of Natural Resources.

AVOID SURPRISE LIENS

Whenever a contractor makes building improvements or constructs a new building—such as a house—for you, you should always require him to furnish proof that he has paid the businesses furnishing supplies and labor for the job. Otherwise, the unpaid suppliers or sub-contractors could file a statement of lien against your property for the money owed to them.

Even if your general contractor gives you a "waiver of lien" for the work he has done, you are not protected from sub-contractors and suppliers if they have not been paid. They could still get a valid lien against your property if they follow the proper procedures.

More than one property owner has found himself having to pay suppliers and sub-contractors even after he has paid the general contractor. Of course, the general contractor is liable to the owner because of this extra payment, but recovery from him can be expensive, difficult, and sometimes impossible.

Your best protection from this unpleasant and expensive situation is consultation with your attorney during the contract process.

Farming in Maryland

Local Farm Bureau Is Well Represented At State Convention

Garrett County Farm Bureau was well represented at the 70th annual Maryland Farm Bureau Convention held December 9 through 11 in Ocean City.

Karen Hamilton, vice president of the Garrett County Young Farmers Organization, competed in the Maryland Young Farmers Discussion Meet, winning the event and the right to represent Maryland in the national contest, and an expense-paid trip to the national convention in Georgia.

Each year the Maryland Young Farmers choose state Young Farmers of the Year. This year the winners were John and Cindy Burtner of Washington County. John, who is serving his second year as Washington County Farm Bureau president, milks 40 cows on his 110 acre dairy farm and rents an additional 240 acres. The Burtners won an expense-paid trip to the national convention in Georgia.

Aside from setting state Farm Bureau policy, the main order of business at the state convention is the election of state officers. This year nominations were taken from the floor, as well as from the nominating committee, with the following results. The new slate of officers is: Robert Wilson from Queen Anne's County, president; Eddie Allen from Calvert County, first vice president; Wayde Dudrow from Talbot County, vice president; and Donald Dell of Westminster County, vice president.

At the convention, the Garrett County Farm Bureau received the "Gold Star" award for membership, and area Safemark dealer Lowell Merrill won the "New Dealer" award.

Attending from Garrett County were: Mr. and Mrs. Clark Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. William DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Bender, Donna Glotfelty, Jim Simms, Lowell Merrill, Dana Rush, Ruta Savage, Farm Queen Daina Savage, Karen Hamilton, and Criss Kepple.

Dairy Price Support Program Is Extended

The dairy price support provisions for milk which are now in effect will continue through December 31, 1985, according to Olin S. Davis, Jr. chairman, Maryland State ASC Committee.

Items to remain in effect through this date include the support price for milk, the Commodity Credit Corporation purchase prices for butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk, and other program provisions.

Under the dairy price support program, a price is set for manufacturing grade milk. The program authorizes the CCC to purchase butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk at announced prices to enable manufacturing plants, on the average, to pay farmers an amount equal to the support price. The milk surplus is the difference between milk marketings and commercial sales.

Davis said the $11.60 per hundredweight support price is for manufacturing milk with a milkfat content of 3.67 percent and compares with $11.31 per hundredweight for milk with a milkfat content of 3.5 percent. He said the support price will assure an adequate supply of wholesome milk to meet current needs.

Cash Receipts Higher In '84

Cash receipts for Maryland farmers were $1,154 million in 1984, up 10 percent from 1983.

Cash receipts for the United States rose four percent to $141 billion in 1984.

The cash receipts received in Maryland for broilers in 1984 were $406 million, sixth nationally. If the cash receipts for Maryland and Delaware were added together, they would rank third in broilers, with Arkansas first and Georgia, second.

Sprangel Explains Market Animal Project Rules

The Garrett County Livestock Association has clarified the guidelines for youth, 4-H and FFA, interested in raising market animals to be sold at the 1986 Garrett County Fair, August 11-16.

Ted Sprangel, Extension Agent, 4-H and Youth, stated that 4-H is open to any youth 8-19 years of age as of January 1, 1986. FFA program is through Vocational Agricultural Programs at Northern and Southern High Schools.

Youth entering an animal in the Garrett County Fair must be enrolled in a 4-H Club or FFA Chapter by January 31, and abide by that organization's rules for active membership. A project record must be completed and submitted to the 4-H club leader or vocational agricultural instructor by date set by them to continue with a project animal for the sale the next year. The 4-H Club leader OR Vocational Agricultural Instructor will determine by July 1 the eligiblity of a member to participate in that year's sale. Any circumstances requiring arbitration of eligibility to consign an animal to the sale will be reviewed by the Garrett County Livestock Association Board of Directors officers.

Active membership was interpreted to mean attending at least six out of eight meetings (75%) from January 1 to the date of the fair.

Beef projects must be purchased and tattooed by January 1, 1986. Persons are asked to make arrangements with the 4-H Office by club so one area can be covered at one time.

Sheep and swine must be purchased at least 60 days prior to opening day of fair.

Any youth interested in a beef, sheep, swine or other animal projects are asked to contact Sprangel at 334-2145 or the Vocational Agriculture Dept. in the local high schools.

Dairy Data

Garrett County is the home of Maryland State Dairy Princess Sheila Bender, whose job is to promote dairy products across the state. As a part of that duty, Sheila has written the following article on osteoporosis to educate us, the public, about just one of the benefits of drinking milk.

Osteoporosis

Have you fed your bones today? This may seem like a silly question, but to older citizens, especially women, it is a very serious question. Osteoporosis, when bones become brittle, weak and more susceptible to fracture, is known as a crippling bone disease.

Osteoporosis is one of the most common and yet poorly understood diseases of middle and old age. Its impact on one's health status, lifestyle and emotional well-being can be devastating. This development of osteoporosis is a complex process with nutritional, physical, hormonal, genetic and racial factors involved. One of the major contributors to osteoporosis is calcium deficiency.

Calcium insufficiency may be caused by two major factors: inadequate intake of calcium-rich foods or decreased availability of calcium. Studies indicate that low calcium intake increases bone loss, while an increased intake retards that process. Decreased availability may be due to an age related decrease in absorptive capacity, inadequate intake of vitamin D, or interference from certain drugs. A diet rich in calcium during the adolescent and early adult years helps to ensure proper bone formation and peak bone mass entering adulthood. Even after one reaches adulthood, a person needs adequate calcium so the bone loss can be minimized as much as possible.

Milk and other dairy foods are major sources of both calcium and phosphorus in the U.S. diet. In addition, most milk is fortified with vitamin D. Two glasses of milk and an ounce of cheese contain the Recommended Dietary Allowance for adults of 800 miligrams of calcium a day. Or try another combination of milk, cottage cheese and yogurt. Every effort should be made to consume adequate food sources of bone-building nutrients daily.

The most effective treatment of osteoporisis is prevention. Adequate nutrition and exercise are the foundation of a prevention program. As with most other health problems, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." With osteoporosis, the goal of prevention is to prevent that degree of bone loss which leads to fractures. Be eating dairy products and using milk in your meal planning, you can be assured of a delicious and nutritious meal, as well as a high calcium intake.

Fortunately, nature makes it easy to get the calcium one needs. With dairy foods, it's not only easy, but delicious.

Farm Bill Review
. . . . . A Garrett County Viewpoint

by Bernice Kepple

Well, he signed it! President Reagan actually signed the farm bill, which is called the Food Security Act of 1985. After his constant threat of veto, during the time Congress was working on the bill and during the time the bill was in the conference committee, he signed the bill Monday, expressing misgivings that the overall cost of the five-year bill, which includes food stamps and research, could reach $110 billion. "This legislation will help put America's farmers back in a competitive position in world markets," he told about 100 farm-state legislators at a White House ceremony after the bill signing. "With this bill we hope to ease American agriculture away from the heavy hand of government and toward a more market-oriented system," he said.

The president also signed a bill that orders a restructuring of the Farm Credit System and gives the Farm Credit Administration more regulatory power, which could lead to a last-resort federal bailout for the farmer-owned lending service. (See seperate story.) American Farm Bureau Federation president Robert B. Delano said the president's signature on both bills "is a good Christmas present" for farmers. "No one got everything they wanted in the farm bill," Delano said. "But I believe it represents a sincere effort on the part of Congress to address the problems in agriculture while nudging producers toward a competitive market place."

The bill is still $2 billion more than the administration's $50 billion target, but will not be enough to slow down the flow of farmers going out of business this winter across the country.

"There is no question but what we will lose some more farmers," Agriculture Secretary John R. Block told reporters Monday. The president said he thought Congress could have done more to keep farm program costs down, but said the extra cost "is what is necessary if we are going to do the job."

The question now is: How will the new law affect the average small farmer - the Garrett County farmer epecially? How will the lower price supports for grain and the high level of income subsidies affect the cost of feed farmers must buy and the price they will receive for grain sold? Will the law create more market-oriented prices that will increase exports? Will it prevent government-purchased surpluses from increasing as rapidly as they have recently?

While the administration did not get precisely what it wanted on the dairy program, Congress did agree to reductions in price supports that will drop the support price from the current $11.60 to $10.10 by 1990. Also against administration wishes, Congress approved an assessment on dairy farmers to help pay for the government's whole-herd buyouts, intended to cut milk production.

President Reagan termed the sections of the law regarding dairy assessments, requirements on sugar import quotas, and subsidies for grain exports as "totally counter-productive" and said that the bill "is not exactly what we wanted." He noted that the administration would press Congress for farm policy changes next year, and said he chose not to veto a bill that's "really pretty good."

So whether it turns out to be a Christmas gift or a burden to farmers remains to be seen as the new year rolls around.

President Reagan Signs Farm Credit Bailout

A bill that orders a restructuring of the Farm Credit System and gives the Farm Credit Administration more regulatory power was signed into law on Monday by President Ronald Reagan to bail the system out of its financial difficulty.

Under the new law, the Farm Credit System, which holds about one-third of the country's $214 billion farm debt, will be required to move assets from healthy districts to needier ones where falling land values have jeopardized thousands of loans.

"We've taken the first step to assist rural America and farmers, as far as the Farm Credit System is concerned," Majority Leader Robert J. Dole (R-Kan.) said.

Recent record losses and the potential for more in the Farm Credit System, the nation's largest agricultural lender, prompted Congress and the administration to push for a reorganization that requires use of the system's assets before federal aid can be provided.

The measure's supporters insisted that without some show of support from Congress and the administration, FCS interest rates would increase dramatically, placing additional burdens on farmers. Only by creating a potential line of credit for the FCS could its bonds compete in the marketplace. "If the bond investors should lose confidence in the farm credit system, or if their confidence is eroded, they will not invest in local farm banks around the country," said Senator Jesse Helms (R-N.C.).

Opponents declared that the FCS rescue bill would implement a transfer of power from local farmers and ranchers to federal regulators. They also said that shifting money within the system would affect healthy banks and associations. The bill would create a super bank called a capital corporation that would hold huge power. "It could tell system banks to contribute funds in unlimited amounts, driving up interest rates within the system and forcing out the best borrowers," argued Senator Max Baucus (D-Mont.).

Dealers Attend S.S. Conference In Roanoke, Va.

Rex Hoalcraft and Forrest Blamble of Oakland, representing Oakland Southern States Cooperative, Inc. of Mtn. Lake Park, have recently returned from a Southern States Cooperative Dealer Conference held at the Roanoke Civic Center Auditorium in Roanoke, Va., on December 3.

The session was held for training and informing Southern States retail personnel about new products and service programs so they can give maximum service to customers next spring.

Among the merchandising programs featured at the conference were ones on feed, seed, fertilizer, farm supplies, tires, batteries and automotive accessories.

The sessions were conducted by the cooperative's commodity specialists and supplier representatives. The conference was held in conjunction with the Southern States Showcase '86 Product Show, where dealers were able to view new products and place orders for supplies for the coming months.

IRS Looking For Taxpayers Who Are Due Refunds

The Internal Revenue Service has announced it has approximately 3,300 tax refunds, averaging $442.00, for area taxpayers they can't find.

Steve Daige, IRS acting director for Maryland and the District of Columbia, said that the 1984 Federal Income Tax refunds, totaling approximately $1,513,000, range in amounts from as low as $1.00 to as high as $43,293.00. The checks were returned to the IRS marked undeliverable by the U.S. Postal Service. "Some taxpayers move and don't leave a forwarding address," said Daige, "Others marry and change both name and address." Still others file tax forms with incorrect address information.

Garrett County residents who are among those due a refund are: Joan M. Leighty, Oakland; Paul and Janet Roderick, Mtn. Lake Park; and William and Regina Butler, Swanton.

Anyone who is expecting a 1984 or a previous recent year's refund, and hasn't already contacted IRS, should call 1-800-424-1040.

The Mtn. Top Promenaders square dance club held their annual Christmas dinner and program at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren recently.

A family-style turkey dinner was served by the Oak Park Women's Fellowship. Rather than having a gift exchange this year, the group opted to buy toys for the flood victims.

Following the dinner and program, a dance was held at Dennett Road School for 32 couples.

Church News

Christmas Eve services will be held at all three churches of the Bittinger parish; St. John's, 7 p.m.; Zion, 8:30 p.m. and Emmanuel, 10 p.m.

The women of Emmanuel decorated the Christmas tree on Sunday afternoon. The decorations are handmade Christiam symbols, called Chrismons, and are only in gold and white.

Pastor Dan Yeiser, vice-pastor of the Bittinger parish, will be on vacation from December 25 until January 2. His home is in West Mifflin, Pa. While he is gone, Pastor Ray Ursin, St. Mark's, Oakland, will be available for anyone who desires a pastor's services. He can be reached at 334-2668 or 334-1229.

Brent Daniel Housley, infant son of Sam and Ellen Housley, became a baptized member of Emmanuel Church on Tuesday, December 24. Pastor Yeiser performed the baptism on Tuesday afternoon. Sponsors for Brent were Patrick and Ann McLister.

The Christmas program was held at the Glade Mennonite Church on Sunday evening, featuring members of the primary classes and the adult choir.

Wedding Solemnized

On Saturday afternoon, Deborah Ann Bittinger and David Allen Paugh were united in marriage at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Pastor Daniel Yeiser performed the ceremony and Martha Glotfelty was organist. The couple are both employed by Bausch and Lomb, and will live in the Broadford apartments.

Receives Degree

Donna Buckel was graduated from Frostburg State College on December 21 receiving a BS degree in early childhood-elementary education. She and her husband, Dennis, and family are members of Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Personal Items

Robert Shives has been a patient at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Glotfelty and son, Craig, were Monday evening visitors of Martha Glotfelty.

Wayne Brenneman, Baltimore, is home to spend the holidays with his parents, Dale and Audrey Brenneman. On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman's two grandchildren spent the night at their home. Their grandchildren are Diana and Richard Hetrick.

JWCC Holds Christmas Party

The Junior Woman's Civic Club met on December 18th for their annual Christmas party at the home of Maxine Gibson.

The meeting began with a covered dish dinner and caroling by the piano. Each member brought a toy or Christmas ornament which was then donated to the flood victims.

We had the initiation of two new members: Jan Shaffer and Ellen Jones.

There will be a Board Meeting on January 16, at 7:00 p.m. at the home of Teresa Field. A Community Fued Committee Meeting will be held on January 8, at 7:00 p.m. at the home of Tammy Ewing.

Our next meeting will be January 2, at 6:00 p.m. The club will have dinner at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then take a tour of the facility. Members are asked to make reservations with LuJean Bosley as soon as possible.

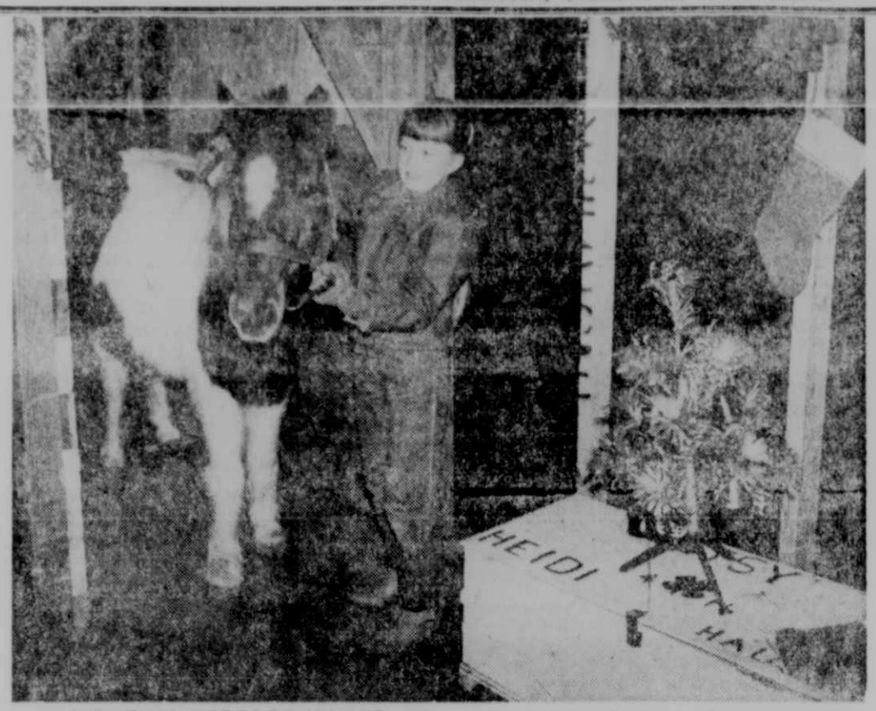
A Pony Named Miss Betsy— A Christmas Gift To Remember

by Bernice Kepple



Many a child has asked for a pony for Christmas, but old Santa has a hard time finding "good" ponies to put in their barns. A kind, honest, trustworthy pony is worth its weight in gold, and when one is found, it often remains with one family all its life.

One very special pony has been a Christmas pony twice in her life. Miss Betsy, now at age 24, is a remarkable senior citizen. The brown and white pinto pony, who stands about 11-hands high, is still as spry as a colt, able to run, buck, and play with her owner, Heidi Hauser. Heidi decorated the pinto pony's stall and hung a stocking for her to celebrate both Christmas and their first anniversary together, for Miss Betsy was Heidi's big Christmas surprise last year.

Betsy knew exactly how to be a good Christmas present for Heidi because she had been a Christmas gift for another little girl when she was much younger. Betsy was born the summer of 1961, on the farm owned by Pearl and Walter Geiger in Cumberland. Friends of the Geigers, Lucille and Randall Hostetler, had a small farm in LaVale and five young Hostetlers. One day Mr. Geiger said, "Randy, I have a sweet little pony that needs a home, and your children need a nice pet. Think about it."

So when Betsy was just six-months old, she was Nina Hostetler's Christmas gift, and they quickly learned to love each other very much. In a few years, Nina grew too large for Betsy and the pony was passed on to Nina's younger sister, Dee.

Betsy lived with the Hostetlers for more than 14 years, and was always good with children, especially little ones. Being good with little children is a trait of Betsy's which has been appreciated by all four of the families who have owned her. Mrs. Hostetler said that while they owned the pony, many neighbor children, friends from school and church, and cousins from Deep Creek and Johnstown, Pa., came for rides, and enjoyed brushing and feeding Betsy, who was always kind to them.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT TO REMEMBER — Her stocking is hung, the tree is trimmed, and Miss Betsy is ready for Christmas. If it is true that animals are given the ability to talk at midnight on Christmas Eve, imagine the stories 24-year old Betsy could tell. Brushing Betsy, so she is ready for her visit from Santa Claus, is her owner Heidi Hauser, who received Betsy as a Christmas gift last year, making that a Christmas to remember.

Betsy's parents were amazed that the two kids could not only climb and play on the pony's back, but could crawl around underneath the pony in the straw between her legs without being in any danger at all. She was the best baby-sitter in the world.

Mike's parents (my husband, Howard, and I) knew that was the kind of pony Mike needed, and told Mrs. Harvey, "If you ever decide to sell Betsy, please give us first chance." We sure were surprised and pleased to get a call from her the following year saying that Bobby Jo wanted a horse and that Betsy was for sale. It didn't take us long to close the deal, and Betsy came to live with Mike at Acorn Acres.

Betsy's show career began with Mike. He also took her to the Garrett County Fair, and the pony's old friend Bobby Jo spent a lot of time with her there. Mike and Bobby Jo rode the pony bareback together in the fair parade that year as a kind of final farewell between Betsy and Bobby Jo.

The pony was willing to learn anything, and Mike's plan was to make her a game pony. Game classes call for the utmost speed and agility from the horse or pony and a lot of riding ability from the rider. Mike and Betsy tried hard, but soon decided to keep showing in pleasure classes, too. The two won many ribbons, with 1980 being their best year.

By that time, it was evident that Mike was becoming too big to show the pony much longer, and would have to graduate to a horse of his own. Mike just couldn't part with Besty though, and continued to ride her on trail rides along with his brother and sister on their horses. Knowing he wouldn't be showing Betsy anymore, Mike thoroughly spoiled her. He would stop on trail and let the pony eat grass, while the other two on their horses got way ahead. Then he'd tell Betsy they had to catch up, and they would both enjoy the run.

Once again, Betsy lacked a friend that stood "eye to eye" with her. And once again, a child that size had fallen in love with Betsy. It was a hard decision for Mike to make, but he finally decided that Betsy would get more love and attention from a new owner and agreed to sell her to Tom and Alice Hauser to give to their daughter, Heidi, for Christmas in 1984.

Heidi said she was so surprised. Her parents told her someone special was coming Christmas Eve, so she watched and waited, not knowing exactly what she was watching for, until she saw a truck and horse trailer coming up the road. Betsy was unloaded and taken to a stall that had been prepared for her, but early Christmas morning when the family woke up, they were all surprised, for there was Betsy standing at the back door of the house, as if she knew she was a gift and should be with the others under the tree.

Betsy and Heidi spent a lot of time getting to know each other, and couldn't wait until spring when the snow melted and they could go riding.

Spring finally came, and with it a near disaster. Betsy had been turned out one morning to roll (which she loves) and exercise before Heidi rode her. When the pony was taken back to the barn to be saddled up, Heidi discovered a bleeding hole in her side, and a veterinarian was called.

The local vet's prognosis was bad. He felt that because of the warm weather, the puncture wound had already advanced to peritonitis. Peritonitis is an inflammation of the membrane which lines the abdomen, and in equines is usually deadly, without a cure.

Heidi's parents were thunderstruck. Heidi loved Betsy, and surely something could be done. When new horse owners ask other horse owners in Garrett County who they should call in an emergency like this, one name is always mentioned - Dr. Elmer Marx in Waynesburg, Pa.

So Dr. Marx was called, and he explained that although it seemed like an extremely short time for peritonits to develop from a new wound, it could be possible, and was usually fatal. There was hope though, a new medicine, a strong antibiotic, had been used by Dr. Marx to save several other horses, and he would be glad to try it on Betsy.

Arrangements were quickly made and Betsy was on her way to Waynesburg that same day. Upon arrival, Betsy was met by Mrs. Marx, who works with her husband. She examined and probed the wound, and said she felt that there was still something in her side. Dr. Marx returned from a farm call a little later and confirmed her suspicion.

Heidi watched and comforted Betsy while Dr. Marx probed the pony's side with tweezers, making contact with the foreign object but being unable to remove it. As a last resort, an operation was performed and to

A VERY SICK PONY is being held by Heidi's father, Tom Hauser, while Dr. Elmer Marx explains to Heidi just what they must do to save the pony's life. Because of Dr. Marx's patience and knowledge and Heidi's love, they were able to do just that. In the picture at the left, Heidi holds the six-inch piece of rusty wire that Dr. Marx found imbedded in the pony's side.

Something To Think About

DIRECTOR
IMPORTANCE OF PLANNING
Often one works for a lifetime, makes countless sacrifices, and does a great deal of planning in order to provide financial security for one's heirs. On the other hand, often too little time and thought is spent on other considerations involving one's survivors.
What should be done in the event of one's death is of primary importance. It is a difficult enough time for spouse and close relatives without having to make decisions regarding your wishes—particularly if these have never been expressed. Discuss the subject openly and, better yet, include your wishes in written form (called letter of instruction).
Plan ahead concerning other matters. Should the survivor stay where he or she is and live alone? Would it be better to move in with grown children, another relative, a friend, a retirement community? Unless this type of question is explored and answered, one has not fully provided for one's survivors.

WINTER DRIVING TIPS

Reliable transportation is important in the winter, especially in Garrett County. If you own a car, make sure it is ready for whatever winter may bring. The following precautions may help you to avoid an unpleasant or dangerous situation while travelling:

1. You should keep your car in top operating condition all year round—for safety and fuel economy. It is especially important for you to winterize your car by checking things like: battery, antifreeze, heater, wiper blades, snow tires and chains, to name a few.

2. Keep your gasoline tank as nearly full as possible. This will minimize water in the tank and will provide the maximum advantage in case of trouble.

3. Carry a winter storm car kit, at all times. A winter storm kit should contain:

•Sleeping bags, or two or more blankets. A stack of newspapers can provide layers of insulation and make a good substitute.

•Two empty 3-pound coffee cans with lids. One may be used for sanitary facilities, the other to burn candles for heat. Use a catalytic heater if available. Whether using this type of emergency heat source or your car's own heater, be sure to leave a window open for air circulation. Carbon monoxide poisoning can happen without the victim being aware of it until it's too late.

•Matches and candles.

•Winter clothing, including wool caps, mittens and boots.

•Large box of facial tissues.

•First-aid kit with pocket knife.

•Flashlight with extra batteries.

•Small sack of sand.

•One set of tire chains.

•Shovel.

•Food supply (high-calorie, non-perishable food such as canned nuts or dried fruits).

•Tools (pliers, screwdriver, adjustable wrench).

•Windshield scraper.

•Extra windshield washer fluid.

•Transistor radio, with extra battery.

•Battery booster cables.

You may feel that all these items are not necessary for your winter storm kit. Each person should evaluate their needs and set up their kit accordingly, in order to have a safe winter on the road.

St. Paul Members Continue Flood Aid

Members of St. Paul's United Methodist Church are continuing their efforts in flood aid to many West Virginia communities.

St. Paul's first became involved with the flooding when the church received a call from West Virginia Civil Defense on November 5 informing them that extensive damage had been done to Flinn's Family Store. They asked for clean-up crews to remove mud and debris and to salvage what they could of the merchandise.

Sandy Orr Flanigan, a member of the church, offered the services of NuWay Laundry on November 6, and volunteers spent the day and laundered six pick-up loads of clothing salvaged from Flinn's Family Store. Other persons from the church and the community brought in food for the volunteers.

The store reopened on December 11 and items that were salvaged carried a special tag which read "authentic survivor."

St. Pauls's also helped with the clean-up of two other stores in Rowlesburg. Rudy's Department Store and Sites Restaurant also sustained considerable damage. Rudy's reopened their doors for business on November 25, and Sites Restaurant is also back in business.

Chruch members also provided families in Rowlesburg, Parsons, Petersburg and Moorefield with food, clothing, furniture and work crews.

Much clothing has already been sorted and distributed by members of the church. The remainder of the clothing will be brought to the church to be sized and packaged during the week of January 6-10, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman from the church noted that anyone is welcome to assist with the clothing during that week. Heavy duty garbage bags and grocery bags are needed for the clothing.

FOOD DRIVE — Members of 7A, "The Hawaiian Tropics", under the direction of Southern Middle School social studies teacher, Miss Shirley Spiker, recently conducted a drive for a food basket to be given to a needy family in the area. Various foods were bought with money that was collected, and canned goods and other items were donated by students. The distribution of the food basket was handled by Rev. Don Matthews, whose son Phillip is a member of the 7A class. Earlier this month, the class collected over 40 gift-wrapped Christmas toys to be sent to flood victims in Garrett and Tucker Counties. Class member Jeannie Shank said, "We've been studying about the lifestyles of countries in Europe; about their government and customs. Our custom is to give presents at Christmastime." Missy Davis added, "Giving is important. I feel good about being able to prepare and give this food to a needy family." Pictured above boxing food items are Ray Hershman, 7A-5; Amy Tichnell, 7A-2 and Tammy Nazelrod, 7A-2. Jeremy DeWitt, 7A-3, is pictured holding the turkey that was purchased with money collected by the students.

Project Gateway Provides Services To Local Seniors

The Maryland Office on Aging, through the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging, operates Project Gateway I, a statewide public service to anyone age 60 and over. There are two Gateway sites in Garrett County, one at the Oakland Senior Center and the other at the Jennings Nutrition Site. Local Gateway coordinators Marie Skipper and Vernon Leighton operate as information, referral and follow-up specialists to assist the elderly in coping with the maze of government agencies and resources, explained Margo VanDiver, director of the Area Agency on Aging.

The coordinators assist senior citizens with information regarding consumer protection guidelines, Medicare, Social Security, Supplemental Social Security, medical assistance, telephone services and rates, medical and community transportation, energy assistance and other programs applicable to seniors. They can provide Maryland Pharmacy applications and explain programs offered by the local Area Agency on Aging, such as discount cards for many local stores and the hot meal sites and community centers.

Mrs. VanDiver said the coordinators will work on an individual basis to resolve a problem through referral to the appropriate agency. Additionally, they will assist in completing applications for the many services through local, state and federal agencies.

"Gateway I is the point of contact for information on available resources for senior citizens," Mrs. VanDiver stated.

the amazement of everyone, including the doctor, a six-inch piece of rusty wire was extrated from the wound.

The incision was closed and a drainage tube put in. Heavy doses of the new antibiotic were given the pony and it was decided that Betsy should stay with Dr. Marx for a while. She was a very sick pony.

Dr. Marx guessed that the piece of wire had been in Betsy's side for a long time. It could have possibly happened while she was running along the fence line or she could have rolled on something that had the wire sticking in it. It probably happened during the winter when her coat of hair was long and shaggy and a small puncture wouldn't be very noticeable. However, once it was in her side, it festered there without being visible and finally that morning when Betsy rolled, it broke through the outer skin.

The initial treatment was completed, but now Betsy had to fight off fever and infection. Heidi worried about Betsy, and apparently Betsy worried and missed Heidi, because everytime the family went to visit the pony she perked up at the sound of Heidi's voice and seemed very glad to see her.

Dr. Marx helped Heidi understand Betsy's problem and taught her to care for the pony. He showed her how to take her temperature and change the drainage tube which would have to remain in the pony's side until the incision healed. Together they cleaned the wound, and Dr. Marx told Heidi that he would do all he could to save Betsy because she loved the pony so much.

Betsy was on the road to recovery and was able to go home, but the trip caused a major set-back. Her temperature went up and her medication had to be increased. Several times a high temperature made an increase or a change of antibiotic necessary, but gradually Betsy became her old self again.

Finally in July, Heidi was able to ride the pony again, and very carefully she increased her riding time and training so that Betsy would be able to go to the fair. Fair week came at last, and Betsy was ready to go. The incision on her side was all healed and hardly noticeable.

And the pony was back to winning ribbons again. She won a blue ribbon and reserve champion in the halter classes, and she and Heidi did well in the walk-trot classes, too. Perhaps one of the nicest things that happened at the fair was that Nina Hostetler, now Nina Otto, who hadn't seen the pony in years and didn't know she was still alive, discovered her old friend Betsy again and got to know the little girl who owns her now.

A pony like Betsy should live forever, and hopefully she and Heidi will celebrate Christmas together for years to come, because a pony is truly a Christmas gift to remember.
